

Gov. Romney Announces 1968 Presidential Decision

DETROIT (AP) — Gov. George Romney, standing on almost the exact spot where he launched his political career less than six years ago, announced today he will seek the 1968 Republican presidential nomination.

Some 600 party leaders and workers, mainly from Michigan, were invited to a breakfast and news conference at the Veterans Memorial Building in downtown Detroit where, as a successful auto executive and prime mover in Michigan constitutional reform, Romney had announced for the governorship in 1962.

Two recent Associated Press surveys showed former Vice President Richard M. Nixon preferred by GOP state chairmen, national committeemen, and delegates and alternates to the 1964 convention that nominated Barry Goldwater.

An October survey of the chairmen and committeemen showed Nixon preferred by 46 per cent, with 26 per cent favoring Romney, 14 liking New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and 7 for California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Romney is generally considered weaker in foreign affairs than Nixon, who said Friday that he wants to be a "decisive winner" of the primaries in New Hampshire, Nebraska, Oregon, Indiana and especially Wisconsin.

Despite the statement, Nixon said he would not decide until late January whether to make his second bid for the White House.

Although early enough for some to predict Romney could wear out his welcome with the voters, timing of the declaration is not unprecedented.

Rockefeller, now one of Romney's major backers, launched his unsuccessful 1964 bid for the Republican nomination on Nov. 7.

Perennial candidate Harold Stassen, once Boy Wonder of the GOP, said this week he would run in the Wisconsin primary next year as a Republican peace candidate.

Romney's 1962 plunge into politics followed several days which the devout Mormon spent in prayerful seclusion. No such retreat preceded today's announcement, however. Romney is still an official of the church.

Although undeclared, Romney has been campaigning hard since his landslide re-election to a third gubernatorial term one year ago shot him to the fore as a presidential possibility.

Having traveled through 36 states since then, the Romney bandwagon is expected to gather a full head of steam within weeks. Romney aides have planned a nine-day campaign trip in New Hampshire starting Monday without the governor.

Romney plans a trip abroad next month that will take him through Western and Eastern Europe and the Far East, including Southeast Asia.

Speculate Pound Devaluation Near In Great Britain

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson called in two top ministers for urgent talks today amid a deepening financial crisis and increasing speculation that his government was about to devalue the pound sterling.

Concrete evidence for this speculation was virtually nil. The government maintained a front of calm while a spate of rumors from continental capitals threw London into financial panic.

No two versions of Britain's financial plight agreed. All that was certain was that stock exchange investors, large and small, were pouring cash into any kind of share or commodity whose worth would survive devaluation of the currency.

The London Times reported that the Bank of England spent more than $560 million of its scarce gold and dollar reserves Friday to buy pounds in an attempt to maintain sterling's recent level.

But the year's trading deficit, which lies behind the crisis, is estimated at $840 million.

If the Times report is correct, the bank pent in a single day a sum equal to two-thirds of a trading deficit which has taken a year to accumulate.

Wilson called Foreign Secretary George Brown and Commons Floor Leader Richard Crossman into his 10 Downing Street residence after midnight.

Both are known supporters of the view that devaluation would be preferable to drastic cuts in the government's domestic spending.

The Times said the government faced three choices:

1. Accept loans totaling $3 billion under conditions that would involve drastic belt tightening at home.

2. Borrow $1 billion and devalue the pound by 15 per cent from its current floor level of $2.78.

3. No loan, and devaluation by 30 per cent.

The effect of devaluation would be to make British goods immediately cheaper in all foreign markets using currencies other than sterling.

At the same time the cost of importing raw materials would rise. At home, prices gradually would rise.

Turkish Jets Violate Cyprus Air Space

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Turkish fighter planes zoomed low over the Karpass peninsula in northeast Cyprus today, violating Cyprus air space, and then flew off, a Cyprus government spokesman announced.

Turkey has been reported dissatisfied with developments on the island 40 miles south of Turkey since a battle Wednesday between Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant reported that during the fighting, Turkey warned the United Nations to stop the battle or else the crisis would "go beyond the borders of the island."

Thant reported the warning to the Security Council Friday night and appealed to all concerned to help restore calm between Greek and Turkish Cypriots and avoid any "repetition of such senseless and deplorable incident."

In Ankara, official sources said the Turkish Parliament gave the government authority Friday to send troops anywhere abroad in case of "conflagration on Cyprus." They said the vote, in closed session, was 432-1 with two members abstaining.

A military source said air force, navy and army units stationed in south-central Turkey, just 40 miles north of Cyprus, remained on the alert Friday.

Informed sources said Turkey protested through diplomatic channels, presumably to Athens and Nicosia, that the status quo on Cyprus had not been restored after the battle which left 25 Turkish Cypriots and two Greek Cypriots dead.

HHH Defends Viet Policy As Priceless

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — History will eventually put its stamp of approval on the Johnson administration's Vietnam policy, although it is unpopular in some quarters today, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said Friday.

"Great decisions should not be directed by public opinion or popularity polls," the vice president said, during a question-and-answer session at the annual convention of Sigma Delta Chi, the national journalistic society. He spoke at a luncheon earlier.

Humphrey drew a parallel between criticism of the administration's Vietnam policies and that leveled against President Truman during the Korean conflict and against President Lincoln in the Civil War.

He said Lincoln would never have signed the Emancipation Proclamation or appointed Gen. U.S. Grant commander of Union forces if he had relied on popular opinion.

"I believe that if we have the courage to stick it out today," declared the vice president, "we may all be alive and thankful tomorrow that, working with the nations of Asia, we bought time — time, which is often the most priceless item on the shelf of history."

Humphrey also defended the South Vietnamese army, which some critics say has done little to help its own nation.

He said the army is being retrained and has made important contributions, but acknowledged, "It's not what we'd like and it's not what they'd like."

The vice president credited South Vietnamese units with winning three major battles near Saigon and with staving off attempts to disrupt inaugural ceremonies last month.

Humphrey said captured Viet Cong documents told of plans to assassinate "some of us" during the inaugural. Humphrey represented the United States at the Saigon ceremonies.

School Slates Swahili Course

NEW YORK (AP) — A Bronx high school plans to offer a course in Swahili—spoken by 100 million Africans—because its principal says it will give Negro youth a "sense of pride" in their heritage.

This first for the city school system came as the result of discussions of some days ago between C. Edwin Linville, the principal of William Howard Taft High School, and Leonard De Champ, a 17-year-old senior. De Champ is active in the Harlem chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality.

About half of the schools 4,800 students are Negro.

The two said Friday the fully accredited selective course would be given beginning in January if enough students sign up for it.

"Anything which students can identify with and feel deeply involved in is a good thing," Linville asserted.

Reject Move To Increase SS Benefits by January

WASHINGTON (AP)—An effort to advance by two months the date for the receipt of bigger Social Security checks has been turned back by the Senate.

Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., offered the amendment to place into effect in January the increased benefits contained in the Social Security bill approved by the Senate Finance Committee.

These include at least a 15 per cent boost for everyone now on the rolls with increases up to 59 per cent at the bottom of the scale.

The vote on Prouty's amendment Friday was 55 to 12 for rejection.

The bill approved by the committee sets a March effective date for the hikes—which means they would be in the checks due April 3.

Prouty said Congress already is far behind schedule on the legislation. He noted President Johnson, when he sent his Social Security recommendations to Congress early this year, asked that the increases become effective July 1, 1967.

Th House, in passing the bill in August, specified that the increases it proposed, smaller than those in the Senate version, should take effect the second month after the measure becomes law. This probably would mean in February.

Prouty said that many persons now are getting only $44 a month from Social Security, or $528 a year.

"These people are suffering, they are going hungry, and they need our help," he asserted.

The minimum monthly amount would be raised to $70 by the Senate bill, and to $50 under the House version.

Final vote on the bill is expected next Wednesday.

3 Cities Affected By School Trouble

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

School disputes took pupils out of the classroom and onto the picket line in two of the nation's cities Friday. Negro leaders in a third community agreed to end a week-long classroom boycott.

Philadelphia school board officials and the police commissioner blame each other for the violence that erupted during a demonstration by 3,500 Negro high school pupils Friday.

In Newark, where some 380 students demonstrated peacefully for an end to disorders in the city's largest high school, a leader says their classroom boycott could end Monday.

Police broke up the Philadelphia rally Friday with 57 arrests and several club-swinging charges at rock-throwing demonstrators. About 20 persons, including five policemen, were injured.

In the Newark demonstration, both white and Negro students from Barringer High School met with school officials seeking action to preserve order in the school, which has seen frequent trouble since classes began in September.

Mr. Levon Khachadourian, president of the school's Parent-Teacher Association, who called for the boycott, said she was "very happy with the results" of the meetings with officials.

Asked if the boycott would end Monday, she replied, "I really hope so." Asst. Supt. Benjamin Epstein said, "I'm hoping we get that school back to complete working order Monday."

In Madison, Ill., Negro leaders agreed Friday night to call off a week-long boycott of the six district schools by 1,300 Negro students after the school board decided to reinstate suspended Negro athletes.

The players had stayed away from football practice to protest the fact that only one of six varsity cheerleaders was a Negro. There are about 3,000 pupils in the school. The board also agreed to change the method used in selecting cheerleaders.

Acquit Pair In Big Holdup

BOSTON (AP) — Mrs. Patricia Diaferio, 32, and the mother of four, and John J. Kelley, stood acquitted today of charges of taking part in the biggest cash robbery in U.S. history, the theft of $1.5 million from a U.S. mail truck in Plymouth.

The defendants stood solemnly as the verdict was returned at 4:09 p.m. Friday slightly more than an hour after the 11-man, 1-woman jury was given the case after 10 days of testimony.

The prosecution charged that Mrs. Diaferio was the woman who stood at a makeshift barricade at an exit ramp on Route 3 and helped divert northbound traffic off the highway so the truck could be robbed undisturbed about four miles up the road on Aug. 14, 1962.

The barricade was erected just as the mail truck traveled in rural countryside carrying cash mailed by Cape Cod banks to the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston.

The thieves bound and gagged the two-man crew on the truck and then drove it to a remote part of Route 128 in nearby Randolph.

Troops Clash Near Dak To, In Delta Area

New Target Hit In North Vietnam; 4 Planes Lost

SAIGON (AP) — Heavy new hill fighting broke out today nine miles west of Dak To in South Vietnam's embattled central highlands where American forces drove North Vietnamese troops from two strategic peaks Friday.

A battalion of the U.S. 1st Airborne Cavalry Division reported fierce fighting with North Vietnamese troops on the flank of a mountain only a few miles from the border of Laos.

Details were lacking as the fighting raged late in the day. Division officials could report only that there was heavy contact.

Simultaneously, AP Correspondent John Lengel reported from the battle sector that South Vietnamese paratroopers and rangers were locked in heavy fighting nine miles northeast of Dak To.

The new fighting came as U.S. artillerymen repelled a mass Viet Cong charge on their positions in the Mekong Delta.

The U.S. Command announced four new plane losses over North Vietnam and the Viet Cong declared three cease-fires, totaling 13 days, for upcoming holidays. The truces would be three days at Christmas, three at New Year's and seven for the Vietnamese new year, Tet, in late January and early February.

Other heavy fighting was reported far to the south in the Mekong Delta.

American artillerymen lowered their howitzers to ground level and blasted point blank into 200 to 300 guerrillas who twice stormed across a canal within 25 yards of the U.S. gunpit and knocked out one 105mm howitzer.

In the air war over North Vietnam, the third target in two days came off the Pentagon's restricted list and headquarters announced three jets were lost in heavy raids around Hanoi and Haiphong Friday.

The latest new target was a barge yard three miles southeast of Hanoi as northeast monsoon lifted enough to allow U.S. pilots to fly 109 missions in all Friday.

At the barge yard, bombs were reported on target, but dust and smoke prevented damage assessment, headquarters said. A spokesman said the yard contained 29 support buildings and three or four covered ways. He said it is rated as capable of producing 7 per cent of North Vietnam's steel barges that carry military supplies along the coast to Communist troop fighting in South Vietnam.

Blast Damages Liner at Sea

NEW YORK (AP)—The liner Gripsholm, carrying 485 persons, drifted without propulsive power in the North Atlantic today after an explosion and fire in the engine room, the Coast Guard reported.

But, the Coast Guard said, the liner reported that there were no injuries to passenger or crew as a result of the incident Friday night.

The position of the liner was given as about 70 miles east of St. John's Newfoundland. The Coast Guard said the captain expected to have power back on the engine in a few hours.

The Coast Guard said the ship had reported its starboard engine was beyond repair at sea.

Mayor's Race Contested

Barnhill Seeks Ballot Recount

Frank Barnhill Jr., who was unsuccessful in his GOP bid for the mayor's office at the polls on Nov. 7, has filed a request for a recount of ballots with the Pickaway County Board of Elections.

Barnhill, who lost the mayor's race by a narrow margin of 29 votes, said today he was encouraged to file for the recount by "many friends and associates."

The official tabulation of votes following the election gave Democrat Richard Gerhardt the race by a vote of 1,771 compared to Barnhill's 1,742.

Barnhill would have to pick up a minimum of 15 votes to make a change in the outcome of the race.

THE petition asking for the recount indicated all the ballots cast in the city's 15 precincts would be counted again. However, Barnhill has the prerogative of stopping the action.

A Board of Elections spokesman said today the recount session would be scheduled "sometime next week."

Board members must read and check the ballots while a clerk records them. Both candidates also have the right to be present for the recount.

The fee required for a vote recount is $10 per precinct.

Percy Urges Periodic Bomb Halts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., proposed today that President Johnson order periodic, unannounced halts in the bombing of North Vietnam to test Communist willingness to negotiate.

"I don't think we ought to give the enemy a chance to pile up supplies and push them through," Percy said. "But I think occasional periodic pauses could test whether or not they can be brought to the conference table—and convince them that we do desire peace."

Percy commented in an interview to be telecast in Illinois.

Percy also said a "Republican president could offer a new approach" to settling the war. But he added neither a Democratic nor Republican administration would "precipitously pull out" of Vietnam.

Percy said he hopes to visit Vietnam this winter if there is enough time between congressional sessions. The first session is due to adjourn before the year's end, with the second opening probably before mid-January.

House Cuts Foreign Aid Cash $1 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's statement to the nation that Congress would make a serious error in slashing his foreign aid bill was followed shortly by a House decision to cut it by a whopping one third.

By a vote of 167 to 143, the House voted Friday for an appropriation figure of $2.196 billion, compared with the $3.226 billion sought by the President. If the Senate goes along, this would be the deepest cut in the 20-year history of foreign aid.

The measure, including provisions to restrict purchases of modern weapons by underdeveloped nations receiving the aid money, was passed by a coalition of 124 Democrats and 43 Republicans. It was opposed by 55 Democrats and 88 Republicans.

The aid program is for 100 countries and 5 territories in the year ending next June 30.

During the debate, an attempt to give the President discretion in making decisions on withholding economic assistance to underdeveloped countries buying sophisticated weapons was rejected.

This kept in the bill language sponsored by Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., to curb purchases of weapons such as jet planes and missile systems by underdeveloped nations by withholding economic assistance in the amount they spend for the equipment. This also bars use of any military aid funds for similar purchases.

Exempted from the provision are Greece, Turkey, Iran, Israel, Nationalist China, the Philippines and South Korea.

Also defeated was an attempt to revoke discretion of the President in permitting the Export-Import Bank to give credit to Communist countries.

The bill provides $1.831 billion of the $2.630 billion sought for economic aid and $365 million of the $596 million requested for military assistance. It is $740 million less than Congress provided last year.

Other provisions also set aside $105 million for the Peace Corps, $14,956,000 for administration of the Ryukyu Islands, $300 million for the Inter-American Development Bank and $104 million for the International Development Association.

Ohio Cities Set for U.S. 'Urbanicare'

By BYRON BEARD
Associated Press Writer

Three Ohio cities chosen for the federal government's "Model City" project may help add another word to Washington's glossary — "urbanicare."

The "patent - medicine" approach — for which an initial $312 million will be provided for 63 cities throughout the nation — hopefully will prove to be what the federal doctor ordered.

Columbus, Dayton and Toledo will experience the bedside manner. And experts say the model cities could produce model residents.

The selected neighborhoods, some of the largest eyesores in the municipal scene, will undergo a complete refurbishing. The six-year program will attack unemployment, housing, education, health and crime.

In Toledo, the experiment area is a 3.5-square mile sector adjoining the heart of the downtown area. Some 30,000 persons live in the area.

Dayton's target area is the West Side—2,200 acres enclosing 32,500 persons or 12 per cent of the city's population.

Columbus will concern itself with 2.6 miles of blight area joining the downtown section on the north. The sector has a residence force of 53,500.

3 Cities Affected By School Trouble

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

School disputes took pupils out of the classroom and onto the picket line in two of the nation's cities Friday. Negro leaders in a third community agreed to end a week-long classroom boycott.

Philadelphia school board officials and the police commissioner blame each other for the violence that erupted during a demonstration by 3,500 Negro high school pupils Friday.

In Newark, where some 380 students demonstrated peacefully for an end to disorders in the city's largest high school, a leader said their classroom boycott could end Monday.

Police broke up the Philadelphia rally Friday with 57 arrests and several club-swinging charges at rock-throwing demonstrators. About 20 persons, including five policemen, were injured.

In the Newark demonstration, both white and Negro students from Barringer High School met with school officials seeking action to preserve order in the school, which has seen frequent trouble since classes began in September.

Mr. Levon Khachadourian, president of the school's Parent-Teacher Association, who called for the boycott, said she was "very happy with the results" of the meetings with officials.

Asked if the boycott would end Monday, she replied, "I really hope so."

Asst. Supt. Benjamin Epstein said, "I'm hoping we get that school back to complete working order Monday."

In Madison, Ill., Negro leaders agreed Friday night to call off a week-long boycott of the six district schools by 1,300 Negro students after the school board decided to reinstate suspended Negro athletes.

The players had stayed away from football practice to protest the fact that only one of six varsity cheerleaders was a Negro. There are about 3,000 pupils in the school. The board also agreed to change the method used in selecting cheerleaders.

The defendants stood solemnly as the verdict was returned at 4:09 p.m., Friday slightly more than an hour after the 11-man, 1-woman jury was given the case after 10 days of testimony.

The prosecution charged that Mrs. Diaferio was the woman who stood at a makeshift barricade at an exit ramp on Route 3 and helped divert northbound traffic off the highway so the truck could be robbed undisputed about four miles up the road on Aug. 14, 1962.

The barricade was erected just as the mail truck traveled in rural countryside carrying cash mailed by Cape Cod banks to the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston.

The thieves bound and gagged the two-man crew on the truck and then drove it to a remote part of Route 128 in nearby Randolph.

Troops Clash Near Dak To, In Delta Area

New Target Hit In North Vietnam; 4 Planes Lost

SAIGON (AP) — Heavy new hill fighting broke out today nine miles west of Dak To in South Vietnam's embattled central highlands where American forces drove North Vietnamese troops from two strategic peaks Friday.

A battalion of the U.S. 1st Air Mobile Cavalry Division reported fierce fighting with North Vietnamese troops on the flank of a mountain only a few miles from the border of Laos.

Details were lacking as the fighting raged late in the day. Division officials could report only that there was heavy contact.

Simultaneously, AP Correspondent John Lengel reported from the battle sector that South Vietnamese paratroopers and rangers were locked in heavy fighting nine miles northeast of Dak To.

The new fighting came as U.S. artillerymen repelled a mass Viet Cong charge on their positions in the Mekong Delta.

The U.S. Command announced four new plane losses over North Vietnam and the Viet Cong declared three cease-fires, totaling 13 days, for upcoming holidays. The truces would be three days at Christmas, three at New Year's and seven for the Vietnamese new year, Tet, in late January and early February.

Other heavy fighting was reported far to the south in the Mekong Delta.

American artillerymen lowered their howitzers to ground level and blasted point blank into 200 to 300 guerrillas who twice stormed across a canal within 25 yards of the U.S. gunpit and knocked out one 105mm howitzer.

In the air war over North Vietnam, the third target in two days came off the Pentagon's restricted list and headquarters announced three jets were lost in heavy raids around Hanoi and Haiphong Friday.

The latest new target was a barge yard three miles southeast of Hanoi as northeast monsoon lifted enough to allow U.S. pilots to fly 109 missions in all Friday.

At the barge yard, bombs were reported on target, but dust and smoke prevented damage assessment, headquarters said. A spokesman said the yard contained 29 support buildings and three or four covered ways. He said it is rated as capable of producing 7 per cent of North Vietnam's steel barges that carry military supplies along the coast to Communist troop fighting in South Vietnam.

Blast Damages Liner at Sea

NEW YORK (AP)—The liner Gripsholm, carrying 485 persons, drifted without propulsive power in the North Atlantic today after an explosion and fire in the engine room, the Coast Guard reported.

But, the Coast Guard said, the liner reported that there were no injuries to passenger or crew as a result of the incident Friday night.

The position of the liner was given as about 70 miles east of St. John's Newfoundland. The Coast Guard said the captain expected to have power back on the engine in a few hours.

The Coast Guard said the ship had reported its starboard engine was beyond repair at sea.

House Cuts Foreign Aid Cash $1 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's statement to the nation that Congress would make a serious error in slashing his foreign aid bill was followed shortly by a House decision to cut it by a whopping one third.

By a vote of 167 to 143, the House voted Friday for an appropriation figure of $2.196 billion, compared with the $3.226 billion sought by the President. If the Senate goes along, this would be the deepest cut in the 20-year history of foreign aid.

The measure, including provisions to restrict purchases of modern weapons by underdeveloped nations receiving the aid money, was passed by a coalition of 124 Democrats and 43 Republicans. It was opposed by 55 Democrats and 88 Republicans.

The aid program is for 100 countries and 5 territories in the year ending next June 30.

During the debate, an attempt to give the President discretion in making decisions on withholding economic assistance to underdeveloped countries buying sophisticated weapons was rejected.

This kept in the bill language sponsored by Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., to curb purchases of weapons such as jet planes and missile systems by underdeveloped nations by withholding economic assistance in the amount they spend for the equipment. This also bars use of any military aid funds for similar purchases.

Exempted from the provision are Greece, Turkey, Iran, Israel, Nationalist China, the Philippines and South Korea.

Also defeated was an attempt to revoke discretion of the President in permitting the Export-Import Bank to give credit to Communist countries.

The bill provides $1.831 billion of the $2.630 billion sought for economic aid and $365 million of the $596 million requested for military assistance. It is $740 million less than Congress provided last year.

Other provisions also set aside $105 million for the Peace Corps, $14,956,000 for administration of the Ryukyu Islands, $300 million for the Inter-American Development Bank and $104 million for the International Development Association.

spoons diced pimento. Heat to serving temperature. Serve over chow mein noodles or 2 c. cooked rice. Garnish with few sprigs parsley, if desired.

Serve with green beans and lettuce and tomato salad. Have gingerbread and applesauce for dessert.

Reds Pushing Supplies Down 'Ho's Trail'

By ROBERT TUCKMAN
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP)—With the onset of the dry season in South Vietnam, the North Vietnamese are making a maximum effort down the Ho Chi Minh trail to their troops in the central highlands and elsewhere.

Intelligence reports tell of hundreds of trucks loaded with ammunition and foodstuffs moving along the trail's jungle back roads in the Red-held section of eastern Laos in the past two weeks.

To counter this movement, American pilots are stepping up their bombing of the trail. There has been at least one unannounced B 52 raid on this major infiltration route.

The trail actually is a network of jungle highways and foliage-covered dirt roads.

The increased truck infiltration began about two weeks ago as the eastern part of Laos and the central highlands of South Vietnam began drying out, while monsoon storms moved North.

The trail starts at the Mu Gia Pass in North Vietnam and work its way south through Laos and parts of Cambodia. It branches at a dozen or more places eastward into South Vietnam.

U.S. officials generally refuse to talk about operations in Laos because of the country's declared neutrality.

Last August, however, the Air Force acknowledged publicly what had been general knowledge for a long time—that American fighter-bombers had been conducting armed reconnaissance missions in Laos since May 1964.

Ohio Extension Boosts Soil and Plant Test Use

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

Ohio's plant analysis program is literally "growing like topsoil". And some comprehensive programs by the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service are helping the state's farmers make the most of soil tests and plant analysis results.

Dr. J. B. Jones, Jr., speaking in Washington, C. C. last week at a four-day conference on meeting the world's food problems, outlined specific Ohio programs now underway.

Jones, a research agronomist at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center, Wooster, is in charge of the Ohio Plant Analysis Laboratory.

Three special programs are underway in Ohio which are aimed at demonstrating what it takes to get maximum yields by using individual farmers' soil test and plant analysis data.

Jones reported that more than 500 farmers participated in corn and soybean yield clubs both this year and in 1966. These are county-operated agronomy and yield contest clubs which frequently require participants to submit soil and plant samples for analysis. These data are being collected and statistically analyzed with results published in club summaries.

Companion Grazing Produces More Gain per Pasture Acre

Grazing sheep and cattle together produced more total animal gain per acre of pasture than cattle alone in a three-year Ohio study.

Agronomist R. W. Van Keuren of the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center, Wooster, reported the findings last week at a joint conference of the American Society of Agronomy, Crop Science Society of America, and Soil Science Society of America in Washington, D. C.

In the studies, sheep and steers were grazed at ratios of one, three, and six sheep per steer, and sheep and steers alone on Kentucky bluegrass-Empire birdsfoot trefoil pasture.

In the first two years of the study, sheep pastured alone averaged 337 pounds of gain per acre each season. Steers produced 304 pounds per acre when grazed alone. With companion grazing six sheep to one steer produced 346 pounds total gains per acre; three sheep to one steer, 344 pounds per acre; and one sheep to one steer, 312 pounds per acre.

On the basis of their findings, the Ohio scientists conclude that adding sheep to steers increases carrying capacity and total animal gains per acre without significantly reducing average daily gains of the steers. They see little advantage, however, to adding cattle to sheep.

The heaviest stocking rates reduced trefoil stand and resulted in increased weed encroachment. Since sheep graze more selectively, farmers must be careful not to overgraze pastures and put cattle at a disadvantage. The Ohio researchers followed a three-pasture rotational grazing system, allowing each pasture a 5-week recovery period before regazing.

Van Keuren's report was one of 675 research presentations at the meetings. Theme of the 4-day conference was "Food for Billions", focusing on the fast-growing problem of feeding the world's burgeoning population.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Steady Boyfriend Has No Manners

DEAR ABBY: Don't you think a girl's steady boyfriend (almost her fiancé) should be allowed to come to dinner at her house as often as he wants to? Mother has set a limit of three times a week.

I say Leo should be welcomed here every night as we plan to marry as soon as one of us gets out of school and get a job.

Daddy has gotten very hateful about it and calls Leo a freeloader behind his back. He says any boy who will accept a dinner invitation more than once a week without inviting the girl out, even for a hotdog, is a bum.

Leo isn't a bum. He just doesn't have the money to take me out so the only time I get to see him is when I invite him here for dinner. He used to drop by to study every evening and he'd stay on for dinner.

But never more than five nights a week.

How can I get my parents to make Leo welcome any time?

LEO'S STEADY

DEAR STEADY: Leo may be your "steady"—but he hardly qualifies as a "fiancee." I think three times a week is plenty. And if you see Leo only when he's feeding his face at your table, maybe three times a week is too much.

DEAR ABBY: I am in the sixth grade and I hate my teacher. If Miss K catches a girl with her skirt rolled up at the top to make it shorter, she makes her unroll it, and tells her if she catches here with her skirt rolled up again she will call her mother.

Abby, a girl can come to school with a real, real, short mini-skirt, like eight inches above the knees, and Miss K doesn't say a thing, but the girls with their skirts rolled up get the dickens. I don't think this is fair, do you?

HATES MISS K

DEAR HATES: Girls who wear mini-skirts to school obviously do so with their mothers' knowledge and approval. But if a girl's skirt is rolled up, she's probably showing more leg than her mother sent her to school showing.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I live in a very nice new apartment building where most of the tenants socialize with each other. We're not newlyweds. The average is 50.

Well, last summer a new craze hit this building. All the women went on diets. Now, I'm all for it, when it's done sensibly but about six of these women, my wife included, have gone off the deep end. No cocktails, no sweets. Nothing but eggs, meat, and cottage cheese!

I will admit, they do look better, but it hasn't improved their dispositions any. My wife has lost 25 pounds since July; (I call her "The Twiggy of Menopause Manor.")

My problem? How can I get a decent meal around here?

HUNGRY
DEAR HUNGRY: What do you weigh? If you're just right, be a good guy and satisfy your craving when your wife isn't around. Otherwise, do yourself a favor, and join her in meat, eggs, and cottage cheese.

CONFIDENTIAL TO
"SECRET PEN PAL": With the holidays approaching soon, if you anticipate being hostess to another gang of rude relatives, either do it gracefully and silently, or see your travel agent now.

Haircut Brings Damage Suit

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—Stanley Jackowski, 27, contends the shearing of his long hair while in Spokane County Jail recently amounted to "mental torture," but has failed in his first attempt to file a $10,000 damage claim against the county.

Jackowski, who lists his home as the Tolstoy Peace Farm near Davenport Wash., was arrested on a highway, charged with attempted hitchhiking. He was jailed and his hair was trimmed and his beard shaved.

Jackowski said in his claim he felt "keen emotional loss because of the haircut." County officials told him to consult an attorney to revise his claim form.

The increased truck infiltration began about two weeks ago as the eastern part of Laos and the central highlands of South Vietnam began drying out, while monsoon storms moved North.

The trail starts at the Mu Gia Pass in North Vietnam and work its way south through Laos and parts of Cambodia. It branches at a dozen or more places eastward into South Vietnam.

U.S. officials generally refuse to talk about operations in Laos because of the country's declared neutrality.

Last August, however, the Air Force acknowledged publicly what had been general knowledge for a long time—that American fighter-bombers had been conducting armed reconnaissance missions in Laos since May 1964.

Ohio Extension Boosts Soil and Plant Test Use

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

Ohio's plant analysis program is literally "growing like topsy". And some comprehensive programs by the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service are helping the state's farmers make the most of soil tests and plant analysis result.

Dr. J. B. Jones, Jr., speaking

in Washington, C. C. last week at a four-day conference on meeting the world's food problems, outlined specific Ohio programs now underway. Jones, a research agronomist at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center, Wooster, is in charge of the Ohio Plant Analysis Laboratory.

Three special programs are underway in Ohio which are aimed at demonstrating what it takes to get maximum yields by using individual farmers' soil test and plant analysis data.

Jones reported that more than 500 farmers participated in corn and soybean yield clubs both this year and in 1966. These are county-operated agronomy and yield contest clubs which frequently require participants to submit soil and plant samples for analysis. These data are being collected and statistically analyzed with results published in club summaries.

Companion Grazing Produces More Gain per Pasture Acre

Grazing sheep and cattle together produced more total animal gain per acre of pasture than cattle alone in a three-year Ohio study.

Agronomist R. W. Van Keuren of the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center, Wooster, reported the findings last week at a joint conference of the American Society of Agronomy, Crop Science Society of America, and Soil Science Society of America in Washington, D. C.

In the studies, sheep and steers were grazed at ratios of one, three, and six sheep per steer, and sheep and steers alone on Kentucky bluegrass-Empire birdsfoot trefoil pasture.

In the first two years of the study, sheep pastured alone averaged 337 pounds of gain per acre each season. Steers produced 304 pounds per acre when grazed alone. With companion grazing six sheep to one steer produced 346 pounds total gains per acre; three sheep to one steer, 344 pounds per acre; and one sheep to one steer, 312 pounds per acre.

On the basis of their findings, the Ohio scientists conclude that adding sheep to steers increases carrying capacity and total animal gains per acre without significantly reducing average daily gains of the steers. They see little advantage, however, to adding cattle to sheep.

The heaviest stocking rates reduced trefoil stand and resulted in increased weed encroachment. Since sheep graze more selectively, farmers must be careful not to overgraze pastures and put cattle at a disadvantage. The Ohio researchers followed a three-pasture rotational grazing system, allowing each pasture a 5-week recovery period before regazing.

Van Keuren's report was one of 675 research presentations at the meetings. Theme of the 4-day conference was "Food for Billions", focusing on the fast-growing problem of feeding the world's burgeoning population.

The third program is with sugar beets. Soil tests, plant analyses, and cultural practices of nearly 300 contract fields of sugar beets are being analyzed to determine what is needed to maximize yields.

Dr. Jones reported that the Extension programs have stimulated a great deal of farmer interest in plant analysis. This is reflected in the increase in the number of Ohio samples submitted — 1,500 in 1965; 3,000 in 1966; and the number will top 5,000 in 1967. He credits the successful handling of the three Extension programs to the area Extension agents in the state.

"Participation and interest among farmers has been tremendous since each farmer has a direct investment in the data. The learning process is greatly enhanced because of the personal involvement as the farmers study the final results from the data they have gathered. Many of the principles of good soil management are clearly revealed in much of the data," said Jones.

Dr. Jones' report was one of some 675 presentations at the four-day joint annual meetings of the American Society of Agronomy, Crop Science Society of America, and Soil Science Society of America, held November 5-10 in Washington. Theme of the meeting was "Food for Billions". Sessions covered all areas of crop and soil science research and results related to the fast-growing problem of feeding the world's population.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Steady Boyfriend Has No Manners

DEAR ABBY: Don't you think a girl's steady boyfriend (almost her fiancé) should be allowed to come to dinner at her house as often as he wants to? Mother has set a limit of three times a week.

I say Leo should be welcomed here every night as we plan to marry as soon as one of us gets out of school and get a job.

Daddy has gotten very hateful about it and calls Leo a freeloader behind his back. He says any boy who will accept a dinner invitation more than once a week without inviting the girl out, even for a hotdog, is a bum.

Leo isn't a bum. He just doesn't have the money to take me out so the only time I get to see him is when I invite him here for dinner. He used to drop by to study every evening and he'd stay on for dinner.

But never more than five nights a week.

How can I get my parents to make Leo welcome any time?

LEO'S STEADY

DEAR STEADY: Leo may be your "steady"—but he hardly qualifies as a "fiance." I think three times a week is plenty. And if you see Leo only when he's feeding his face at your table, maybe three times a week is too much.

DEAR ABBY: I am in the sixth grade and I hate my teacher. If Miss K catches a girl with her skirt rolled up at the top to make it shorter, she makes her unroll it, and tells her if she catches her with her skirt rolled up again she will call her mother.

Abby, a girl can come to school with a real, real, short mini-skirt, like eight inches above the knees, and Miss K doesn't say a thing, but the girls with their skirts rolled up get the dickens. I don't think this is fair, do you?

HATES MISS K

DEAR HATES: Girls who wear mini-skirts to school obviously do so with their mothers' knowledge and approval. But if a girl's skirt is rolled up, she's probably showing more leg than her mother sent her to school showing.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I live in a very nice new apartment building where most of the tenants socialize with each other. We're not newlyweds. The average is 50.

Well, last summer a new craze hit this building. All the women went on diets. Now, I'm all for it, when it's done sensibly but about six of these women, my wife included, have gone off the deep end. No cocktails, no sweets. Nothing but eggs, meat, and cottage cheese!

I will admit, they do look better, but it hasn't improved their dispositions any. My wife has lost 25 pounds since July; (I call her "The Twiggy of Menopause Manor.")

My problem? How can I get a decent meal around here?

DEAR HUNGRY: What do you weigh? If you're just right, be a good guy and satisfy your craving when your wife isn't around. Otherwise, do yourself a favor, and join her in meat, eggs, and cottage cheese.

CONFIDENTIAL TO

"SECRET PEN PAL": With the holidays approaching soon, if you anticipate being hostess to another gang of rude relatives, either do it gracefully and silently, or see your travel agent now.

Haircut Brings Damage Suit

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Stanley Jackowski, 27, contends the shearing of his long hair while in Spokane County Jail recently amounted to "mental torture," but has failed in his first attempt to file a $10,000 damage claim against the county.

Jackowski, who lists his home as the Tolstoy Peace Farm near Davenport Wash., was arrested on a highway, charged with attempted hitchhiking. He was jailed and his hair was trimmed and his beard shaved.

Jackowski said in his claim he felt "keen emotional loss because of the haircut." County officials told him to consult an attorney to revise his claim form.

Central State Leaders Get Full Support

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Central State University officials were given assurance Friday that the state will "back them up" if further trouble develops on the campus at Wilberforce.

University President Harry Groves, trustee Chairman John H. Bustamante and other school officials met here with Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe and John McElroy, chief aide to Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Saxbe said the meeting concerned "mostly administrative matters, but we told them we would back them up."

Rhodes earlier called for a complete investigation to get "all the facts" of a riot that hit the predominantly Negro school Monday night resulting in the call out of the National Guard. About 95 arrests were made and several highway patrolmen were injured.

School officials closed the school Tuesday until after Thanksgiving.

Several Central State students Friday accused the highway patrolmen and Guardsmen of mishandling students during the riot and making unnecessary arrests.

They made their complaint to the Urban League of Springfield.

Lt. Col. C. E. Reich, assistant superintendent of the patrol, and Brig. Gen. Robert Canterbury, assistant adjutant general of the state militia, denied the charges.

"Arrests were made for disturbing the peace or persons who were destroying property," Reich said.

Black Power elements are suspected of causing the riot, and an organization known as Unity for Unit has been banned from the campus. The organization is believed connected with the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC).

On another front, the Ohio Board of Regents, meeting Friday at Lorain, called for a review of state regulations and procedures to prevent a recurrence of riots such as the one that struck Central State.

Seek Court Order
Against Teachers

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—The Lorain Board of Education sought a court order today to get more than 300 public school teachers back to classrooms Monday.

The teachers have voted overwhelmingly to stretch their walkout into a third school day unless agreement is reached on a new contract.

City Solicitor John Hritsko said he would ask common pleas court today on Monday for a temporary injunction to prevent the teachers from holding a third professional study day.

Strike Banned

CLEVELAND (AP)—U.S. District Judge Glad E. Kalbfleisch granted the Erie Lackawanna Railroad a temporary injunction Friday restraining Local 952 of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen from any strike or work stoppage against the railroad at Youngstown.

The Booster Club will hold its annual card party Sat. Nov. 18 at the school, also it will sponsor the football banquet, a carry-in dinner to be held 6:30 p.m. Mon. Nov. 20. Guest speaker for the banquet will be Mr. Bill Rohr, athletic director at Ohio University.

Straw Polls Valuable in Local Elections?

By JOHN W. CHACE

CINCINNATI (AP)—A University of Cincinnati political science professor is convinced straw polling, even by amateurs if done properly, can forecast local election outcomes.

Dr. Eric Weise, a soft-spoken 34-year-old native of Charleston, W. Va., now has conducted three such polls, using University of Cincinnati volunteers and a few paid workers, and he has been "right on the nose" each time.

Weise is a UC graduate and obtained his doctorate at Indiana University.

Perhaps the most surprising poll was in the recent councilmanic election in Cincinnati.

There was a general feeling that Republicans were in trouble.

About two months ago, Weise privately told a friend that his poll showed Republicans would elect five of the nine members of the Council—probably six.

The election results showed six Republicans elected.

Weise got started on the polling through conversations with Michael de Wassen-Czege, a Hungarian refugee and a computer specialist now in Florida.

It is an involved formula that Weise uses to select the persons to be polled. It involves, among other things, income and past voting patterns. As it has worked out, candidates can learn their strong and weak areas and can campaign accordingly.

Weise first started his poll last year with the Congressional race in the First Ohio District. Since then he has done it on the election of a state representative and for the City Council election.

Weise's survey in the 1966 congressional election showed that Republican Robert Taft Jr. would knock off incumbent Democrat John Gilligan by a 2-3 per cent margin.

Taft won the House seat by less than a four per cent edge.

In projecting the outcome of the 70th Ohio House District, Weise sampled 250 persons. The Hausman would beat out Norman Murdock by less than one per cent of votes cast. Hausman won by slightly over one per cent.

A poll conducted in October showed that incumbent City Council Democrats Thomas

Lukens and Phil Collins would lose their seats and that Gilligan, William Keating and Ralph Kohnen would be elected.

Keating, Republican, was a common pleas court judge and Kohnen, also a GOP member, was a state representative.

Not only did the poll prove right again but it also picked the order in which several of the candidates would finish.

Weise served as a campaign manager of Kohnen and one of his reasons for taking the survey was to discover where strength in the city were and what issues he needed to dwell upon.

The professor feels the poll helped Kohnen gain a Council position and can help other candidates to map their strategies and eventually get elected to a post.

"The polls give us information on how to upset the whole ball game," he said.

Poor Eye Rabbits Like Mr. Magoo

By BYRON BEARD

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Get your face out of the cartoon, Mortimer. Rabbits do wear contact lenses.

Okay, so in animal characteristics you don't fare with the hare of Bugs Bunny fame. Maybe more akin to Mr. Magoo of poor-eye acclaim?

Well, be human—don't mind if your little friends of the carrot-eating world and their nocturnal cousin opossum do your eye research for you.

Seems they have their Magooos too.

Because of a group of rabbits and opossums at the Ohio State University School of Optometry, man soon may be wearing contact lens that he can fold and put in his pocket like a piece of rubber.

Dr. Richard Hill and his assistants are far removed from the cartoon world. They're interested in advancing contact lens techniques and optics research. They find the two animals make the best subject.

"Frankly, they're model patients," admits Hill, associate professor of physiological optics at Ohio State. "They don't tend to wear their lens all night after a cocktail party," he quips.

The 32-year-old Hill and his several graduate assistants fit their patient—a half-dozen—each day with experimental lenses to which are attached micro-electrodes which measure physical changes of the eye.

The eye scientists work with lens made of soft plastic and silicon, measuring temperature change in the tear layer in front of the eye, oxygen and carbon dioxide amount under the lens, and tear acidity.

Hill said the animals are paving the way for human eye research and improved lens apparatus, and he predicts that a new, soft-type contact lens will be on the market in two years.

What about his patients?

"We cultivate them," said Hill, adding that the best animal subject is selected on much the same basis as a human operation.

But there have been a few problems. Procedures have to be more exact, as the opossum has a cornea one-quarter inch in diameter; the rabbit, three-quarters of an inch. Compare this to human dimensions of almost one inch.

Hill found he could use only colored coated animals, as albino rabbits—like albino people—have vision too poor for test purposes.

But Hill's rabbits and opossums are just bad enough—eye-wise, that is—to be perfect. "Both animals have a tendency to be extremely farsighted and this is experimentally good for measuring refractive error," he relates.

Currently, Hill said two promising materials are being tested: One a gel, the other a silicon rubber.

The eye scientist, who hails from Berkeley, Calif., is optimistic about eventual results as he goes about performing his daily experiments.

His rabbits and opossums undergo the one-hour better-sight session with hardly a quiver. This has been one of the more pleasant aspects, says Hill, since he began his research at Berkeley in 1961.

Ohio State has been his base of operations since 1964.

Funds for the project have been supplied by various grants. The Ohio Lions Club and OSU have contributed largely, Hill said.

Put your faith in a carrot? Not a chance, say the eye scientists. And their subjects are authorities.

President Elated With New 'Style'

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson has found for his televised news conferences a not-so-secret weapon in a gadget called the lavalier microphone.

Television professionals have been using them for years. They're nothing more than small mikes that hang around the neck by a cord.

For all his TV exposure during four years in the White House, however, Johnson had not tried one out until Friday at his live television-radio news conference.

Johnson and his aides were elated with the results. Most Washington reporters who saw him either in person or on the TV screen agreed he had turned in an improved performance. And the President was delighted to receive a growing stack of congratulatory telegrams which hailed his new TV personality.

By using the around-the-neck microphone, Johnson was able to desert the rather formidable rostrum behind which he normally has stood in rather wooden fashion. Wired for sound, he could roam about, discard his eyeglasses and wave his arms and fists for emphasis.

For four years, Johnson has been searching for a way to hold televised news conferences in a manner that would not invite invidious comparisons with his articulate and photogenic predecessor, John F. Kennedy.

It seems likely he will henceforth adopt the lavalier microphone as his own personal contribution to the ever-changing format of presidential news conferences.

PANAMA (AP)—The tired, old peddler suspected of being Adolf Hitler's last Gestapo chief has shambled out of the lime-light a free man and says he expects his business of selling ties and combs to benefit from his international publicity.

The family said it had known Keith since the time he says he arrived here in 1940, five years before Mueller was last seen in Hitler's Berlin bunker just before the collapse of the Nazi regime.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has found for his televised news conferences a not-so-secret weapon in a gadget called the lavalier microphone.

Television professionals have been using them for years. They're nothing more than small mikes that hang around the neck by a cord.

For all his TV exposure during four years in the White House, however, Johnson had not tried one out until Friday at his live television-radio news conference.

Johnson and his aides were elated with the results. Most Washington reporters who saw him either in person or on the TV screen agreed he had turned in an improved performance. And the President was delighted to receive a growing stack of congratulatory telegrams which hailed his new TV personality.

By using the around-the-neck microphone, Johnson was able to desert the rather formidable rostrum behind which he normally has stood in rather wooden fashion. Wired for sound, he could roam about, discard his eyeglasses and wave his arms and fists for emphasis.

For four years, Johnson has been searching for a way to hold televised news conferences in a manner that would not invite invidious comparisons with his articulate and photogenic predecessor, John F. Kennedy.

It seems likely he will henceforth adopt the lavalier microphone as his own personal contribution to the ever-changing format of presidential news conferences.

Panama Peddler Out of Jail

PANAMA (AP) — The tired, old peddler suspected of being Adolf Hitler's last Gestapo chief has shambled out of the lime-light a free man and says he expects his business of selling ties and combs to benefit from his international publicity.

Francis Willard Keith, who informants claimed was Heinrich Mueller, boss of Adolf Eichmann, went to the home of a well-known Panamanian family after the government released him Friday following 76 hours confinement.

The family said it had known Keith since the time he says he arrived here in 1940, five years before Mueller was last seen in Hitler's Berlin bunker just before the collapse of the Nazi regime.

LE Boosters Hold Meet

The Logan Elm Booster Club held its monthly meeting at the Logan Elm High School with president, Mrs. Robert Young, presiding.

A final report was given on the Pumpkin Show booth and the fish supper held this past month. A note of appreciation was given to those who helped in the projects.

Nelson Jones, chairman of the budget committee, read a proposed budget for the coming year. It was decided the committee would revise the budget and it would be voted on at the next meeting.

The Booster Club will hold its annual card party Sat. Nov. 18 at the school, also it will sponsor the football banquet, a carry in dinner to be held 6:30 p.m. Mon. Nov. 20. Guest speaker for the banquet will be Mr. Bill Tohr, athletic director at Ohio University.

Central State Leaders Get Full Support

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Central State University officials were given assurance Friday that the state will "back them up" if further trouble develops on the campus at Wilberforce.

University President Harry Groves, trustee Chairman John H. Bustamante and other school officials met here with Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe and John McElroy, chief aide to Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Saxbe said the meeting concerned "mostly administrative matters, but we told them we would back them up."

Rhodes earlier called for a complete investigation to get "all the facts" of a riot that hit the predominantly Negro school Monday night resulting in the call out of the National Guard. About 95 arrests were made and several highway patrolmen were injured.

School officials closed the school Tuesday until after Thanksgiving.

Several Central State students Friday accused the highway patrolmen and Guardsmen of mishandling students during the riot and making unnecessary arrests.

They made their complaint to the Urban League of Springfield.

Lt. Col. C. E. Reich, assistant superintendent of the patrol, and Brig. Gen. Robert Canterbury, assistant adjutant general of the state militia, denied the charges.

"Arrests were made for disturbing the peace or persons who were destroying property," Reich said.

Black Power elements are suspected of causing the riot, and an organization known as Unity for Unit has been banned from the campus. The organization is believed connected with the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC).

On another front, the Ohio Board of Regents, meeting Friday at Lorain, called for a review of state regulations and procedures to prevent a recurrence of riots such as the one that struck Central State.

Seek Court Order Against Teachers

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — The Lorain Board of Education sought a court order today to get more than 500 public school teachers back to classrooms Monday.

The teachers have voted overwhelmingly to stretch their walkout into a third school day unless agreement is reached on a new contract.

City Solicitor John Hritsko said he would ask common pleas court today on Monday for a temporary injunction to prevent the teachers from holding a third professional study day.

Strike Banned

CLEVELAND (AP)—U.S. District Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch granted the Erie Lackawanna Railroad a temporary injunction Friday restraining Local 932 of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen from any strike or work stoppage against the railroad at Youngstown.

Straw Polls Valuable in Local Elections?

By JOHN W. CHACE

CINCINNATI (AP) — A University of Cincinnati political science professor is convinced straw polling, even by amateurs if done properly, can forecast local election outcomes.

Dr. Eric Weise, a soft-spoken 34-year-old native of Charleston, W. Va., now has conducted three such polls, using University of Cincinnati volunteers and a few paid workers, and he has been "right on the nose" each time.

Weise is a UC graduate and obtained his doctorate at Indiana University.

Perhaps the most surprising poll was in the recent councilmanic election in Cincinnati. There was a general feeling that Republicans were in trouble.

About two months ago, Weise privately told a friend that his poll showed Republicans would elect five of the nine members of the Council—probably six.

The election results showed six Republicans elected.

Weise got started on the polling through conversations with Michael de Wassen - Czege, a Hungarian refugee and a computer specialist now in Florida.

It is an involved formula that Weise uses to select the persons to be polled. It involves, among other things, income and past voting patterns. As it has worked out, candidates can learn their strong and weak areas and can campaign accordingly.

Weise first started his poll last year with the Congressional race in the First Ohio District. Since then he has done it on the election of a state representative and for the City Council election.

Weise's survey in the 1966 congressional election showed that Republican Robert Taft Jr. would knock off incumbent Democrat John Gilligan by a 2-3 per cent margin.

Taft won the House seat by less than a four per cent edge. In projecting the outcome of the 70th Ohio House District, Weise sampled 250 persons. The Hausman would beat out Norman Murdock by less than one per cent of votes cast. Hausman won by slightly over one per cent.

A poll conducted in October showed that incumbent City Council Democrats Thomas

Lukens and Phil Collins would lose their seats and that Gilligan, William Keating and Ralph Kohnen would be elected.

Keating, Republican, was a common pleas court judge and Kohnen, also a GOP member, was a state representative.

Not only did the poll prove right again but it also picked the order in which several of the candidates would finish.

Weise served as a campaign manager of Kohnen and one of his reasons for taking the survey was to discover where strength in the city were and what issues he needed to dwell upon.

The professor feels the poll helped Kohnen gain a Council position and can help other candidates to map their strategies and eventually get elected to a post.

"The polls give us information on how to upset the whole ball game," he said.

Poor Eye Rabbits Like Mr. Magoo

By BYRON BEARD

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Get your face out of the cartoon, Mortimer. Rabbits do wear contact lenses.

Okay, so in animal characteristics you don't fare with the hare of Bugs Bunny fame. Maybe more akin to Mr. Magoo of poor-eye acclaim?

Well, be human—don't mind if your little friends of the carrot-eating world and their nocturnal cousin opossum do your eye research for you.

Seems they have their Magooos too.

Because of a group of rabbits and opossums at the Ohio State University School of Optometry, man soon may be wearing contact lenses that he can fold and put in his pocket like a piece of rubber.

Dr. Richard Hill and his assistants are far removed from the cartoon world. They're interested in advancing contact lens techniques and optics research. They find the two animals make the best subject.

"Frankly, they're model patients," admits Hill, associate professor of physiological optics at Ohio State. "They don't tend to wear their lens all night after a cocktail party," he quips.

The 32-year-old Hill and his several graduate assistants fit their patient—a half-dozen—each day with experimental lenses to which are attached micro-electrodes which measure physical changes of the eye.

The eye scientists work with lens made of soft plastic and silicon, measuring temperature change in the tear layer in front of the eye, oxygen and carbon dioxide amounts under the lens, and tear acidity.

Hill said the animals are paving the way for human eye research and improved lens apparatus, and he predicts that a new, soft-type contact lens will be on the market in two years.

What about his patients?

"We cultivate them," said Hill, adding that the best animal subject is selected on much the same basis as a human operation.

But there have been a few problems. Procedures have to be more exact, as the opossum has a cornea one-quarter inch in diameter; the rabbit, three-quarters of an inch. Compare this to human dimensions of almost one inch.

Hill found he could use only colored coated animals, as albino rabbits—like albino people—have vision too poor for test purposes.

But Hill's rabbits and opossums are just bad enough—eye-wise, that is—to be perfect. "Both animals have a tendency to be extremely farsighted and this is experimentally good for measuring refractive error," he relates.

Currently, Hill said two promising materials are being tested: One a gel, the other a silicon rubber.

The eye scientist, who hails from Berkeley, Calif., is optimistic about eventual results as he goes about performing his daily experiments.

His rabbits and opossums undergo the one-hour better-sight session with hardly a quiver. This has been one of the more pleasant aspects, says Hill, since he began his research at Berkeley in 1961.

Ohio State has been his base of operations since 1964.

Funds for the project have been supplied by various grants. The Ohio Lions Club and OSU have contributed largely, Hill said.

Put your faith in a carrot? Not a chance, say the eye scientists. And their subjects are authorities.

A Dream of Peace

What man dreams of doing, he often is able to accomplish.

For instance, visionaries have been predicting for years that man someday will expand his living space on this planet by establishing cities under the sea.

Next year, the U. S. Navy plans to take the first step that would make this vision a reality. It will put teams of men into a steel "house" which will be submerged 430 to 600 feet below the surface of the sea. There the men will work and live, and add to scientists' knowledge of man's ability to adapt to such an artificial life.

The Navy isn't so much interested in undersea cities as it is in exploring the depths of the ocean. That in itself is the result of another dream.

When man knows the bottom of the seas, he will be master of those great bodies of water, be able to use them better for navigation, to reap better harvests of food from the sea, and to take out the rich minerals which the "dark unfathomed caves of ocean bear."

It pays to stop once in awhile and take in the many ways in which age-old dreams of man are coming true today. Instant communication, space travel, victory over disease, harnessing of nuclear power — there is an endless list.

There is no reason that man's advances should all be on the physical plane. There is a world-wide outcry for real international peace today. The natural reaction is that it is impossible, considering the nature of man.

Is it impossible, though? Remember man dreamed for centuries about exploring the bottom of the ocean, and finally that dream is being realized.

When man begins to dream about the impossible, he takes the first step toward making it possible.

Laff-A-Day

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tolerance has a crooked neck. This comes from leaning over backwards not to appear intolerant.

The result is that violent demonstrations are getting more violent.

Freedom of expression, including the right to dissent, is a basic American right. But expressing dissent through violence is not a right. Only the peaceful kind is.

Violent expression is a national disgrace. If permitted to continue, it opens the door to anarchy since it is a defiance of law and order.

But there seems to be a great public reluctance—and particularly on the part of government leadership—to urge and take strong action to prevent mass violence or to crush it fast if it occurs.

Both whites and Negroes have committed historic acts of violence in the past few months, even though for different reasons.

In Detroit last summer Negroes looted and burned but Michigan and national authorities showed great hesitancy to meet the violence with full force fast and crush it.

Then this week in New York where Secretary of State Dean Rusk spoke at a hotel, bands of anti-Vietnam war demonstrators, unable to pierce the police lines set up to protect Rusk, turned the night into a riot.

They pelted policemen, automobiles and buildings with steers' blood and resisted arrest. Forty of them were arrested and a number of persons, including five policemen were injured.

The steers' blood was supposed to symbolize human blood shed in Vietnam. The secretary of state had to slip into the hotel through its garage hours ahead of time to avoid the pickets.

Rusk and President Johnson have to travel under increased security guard and, reportedly, have had to cancel some of their public appearances when they learned thousands of antiwar pickets were waiting for them.

Although Johnson is in the No. 1 position to act and arouse public opinion to act against the increasing irresponsibility and public appearances when they violence he hasn't said much about it.

The roots of the violence probably go back into the 1950s when white liberals journeyed South to help Negroes test the discriminatory racial laws still on the books there.

Those were relatively peaceful expressions of protest and they were effective in arousing the country to the injustices against Negroes. But the idea of protest by direct action, first by peaceful picketing, caught on around the nation.

Bit by bit violence grew out of the demonstrations in schools and cities until some weeks ago a mob protesting the Vietnam war tried to force it way into the Pentagon.

It's a good guess that a number of the pickets—judging from their brainless actions—were mental emotional cases using the war as an excuse, conscious or not, to defy society or wreak vengeance on it.

It is a frightening commentary on the mood of the country that the President and Secretary of State have to travel under heavy guard, sneak in through a garage to make a speech, or call off visits and speeches altogether.

With the violence increasing, it poses an embarrassing question: How can Johnson, if he seeks a second term in the presidency next year, dare to make a speech in public during the campaign?

The No. 1 question is how to stop the violence. If it continues it is not hard to imagine some blood baths ahead as the violent ones among the demonstrators move from steers' blood to bombs and bullets.

Cause for Thanks

The average home-cooked dinner for four will cost $5.85 this year, down from $6.05 last year, according to projections. The decrease is attributed entirely to cost of turkeys, lowest in 27 years.

Thanksgiving dinner will cost less this year. Is the amazing news which has been widely disseminated. If the cost were the same as last year consumers would have reason to rejoice.

"It was a teacher I had back in public school," recalled Rodgers, "A Miss Katz." "My, how proud she must be of you," exclaimed Ewen. "Have you any idea what's become of her?" "None," admitted Rodgers.

Ewen thereupon determined to track down Miss Katz, and at long last succeeded in his quest. "Richard Rodgers tells me," Ewen explained to the dear little old lady, "that you are the one who's really responsible for his interest in music." Miss Katz's reply was unexpected. "Richard Rodgers?" she mused. "I don't remember him at all!"

Today is Saturday, Nov. 18, the 322nd day of 1967. There are 43 days left in the year.

In 1905, in a national plebiscite in Norway, Prince Carl of Denmark was elected Norway's King Haakon the Seventh.

In 1919, there was an enthusiastic ticker-tape reception for Britain's Prince of Wales in New York as he made his first visit to the United States.

In 1936, the fascist governments of Germany and Italy recognized the Franco regime in Spain.

In 1941, British forces launched an offensive in Libya in the second World War.

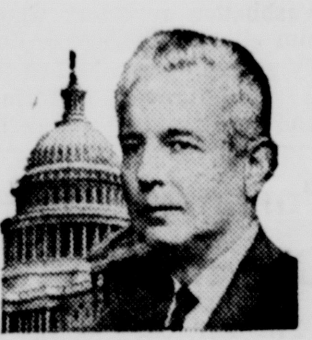

In 1954, French Premier Mendes-France was in Washington to seek financial aid to halt the communist threat in Vietnam.

Ten years ago, Adlai E. Stevenson moved into a State Department office to help the Dwight D. Eisenhower administration plan for an important meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Five years ago, legislative elections in France were a landslide victory for candidates backing President Charles de Gaulle.

WASHINGTON REPORT
From
WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
6th District, Ohio

It is time to curtail foreign spending.

As indicated by action last week in the House of Representatives, Americans are getting fed up with the way our nation's foreign aid program is going.

In spite of much arm-twisting responsible legislators in both parties joined protesting aid to nations that persist in trading with North Vietnam. Three more votes would have brought a halt to this nefarious business.

The House voted to trim the President's foreign aid giveaway program by nearly $800,000,000 and is working to cut another half billion dollars from a program that has outlived its original purpose.

Our foreign aid program began as emergency, post-war aid to help in reconstructing friendly and defeated nations. It has degenerated into a costly boondoggle that frequently subjects us to extortion and blackmail from experienced con men in nations who have little love for us or for the freedoms we claim to promote.

It's high time we opened our eyes to what our $130 billion have actually accomplished overseas.

American prestige abroad is at a lower level today than at any time in the modern history of our country.

Ninety percent of the 122 members of the United Nations have received assistance from the United States.

Some have put our dollars to excellent use. Taiwan, for instance, is now largely making her own way. Yet those receiving the most help in recent years are often the first to take sides with those who preach hatred against the U.S. in Asia and the Middle East.

In some countries, the dependency of millions of people has been increased. In others, autocratic regimes have been enabled to concentrate on heavy industry and war while we keep the larger full. In some nations our assistance has kept tyrants in power earning for us the implacable hatred of subjugated people.

But the greatest wrong, in my opinion, is against the American working man who is already burdened with a crushing mountain of taxes and national debt.

We're going to hear a lot of wailing from proponents of foreign give away programs as the frustration of taxpayers is felt in Washington, but until we can balance our budget and settle some problems at home and in Vietnam, we have no business trying to buy friends abroad.

According to Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "What is it really like to be a newspaper columnist?"

That is the question readers most frequently ask and, after only 24 years in the industry, the one I find hardest to answer.

It was best described, in my opinion, by the late Don Marquis, who was a columnist for many years before he repented and became a playwright. He said of his former occupation that it amounted to "digging a daily grave."

There do seem to be some public misconceptions of a columnist's pattern of existence.

For example, some people feel he is a person who dwells in a penthouse, rides to work in a chauffeur-driven limousine, and has a salary adequate for the ransom of 12 captive princes.

He is supposed to have lunch with industrial tycoons, spend his afternoons giving confidential advice to world-renowned diplomats and his evenings running his fingers through the minds, if any, of beautiful movie stars.

Beloved friends and dear questioners, that ain't quite the way a normal red-blooded American newspaper columnist really lives.

He lives, as most people do, on the edge of his personal desperation. He has two big problems in life: (1) to find a new idea each day that will save him from mental bankruptcy, and (2) to earn enough money to provide bread for his children and milk to keep his ulcers quiet.

His biggest yearning in life is somehow to find a way to surprise his wife with a fur coat — made of any kind of fur — before she expires.

The next-most-often-asked question that makes a newspaper columnist sigh is this one: "What do you do besides writing your column?"

The clear implication here is that it is somehow undignified or un-American for a man to do nothing but compose 500 words of prose a day, Monday through Friday. He is expected to have more than one arrow in his quiver.

Some columnists may do other things. Some moonlight by driving taxicabs over the weekend. Others try to achieve respectability by pretending they are writing a book.

The actual truth of the matter, however, is that a majority of columnists spend any spare time at their disposal in gnawing their fingernails or going to parties.

Several times a day a columnist gets by telegram or mail missives that begin: "You are cordially invited to..."

"We'd be sincerely delighted to have your presence at..."

These invitations are for functions that run the full gamut from boredom to tedium.

In a single day it is possible for a columnist to be invited to the unveiling of a new tractor at the Waldorf, to gnaw cold salmon with a literary lion at the Plaza, or to act as a judge at the Americana in a contest to determine which secretary in Manhattan has the prettiest dimple on her left knee.

But a columnist's health is not measured by the number of cocktail parties he helps launch but by the number of such functions he has the strength to abstain from.

Most of the time he can have more fun just sitting there before an ominously silent typewriter, a vacant look on his face as he stares hopefully up at that same old familiar spot on the ceiling, wondering when the lightning will strike.

See you next Monday.

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Good dental hygiene — fluoride applications to the teeth and fluoride in water and toothpaste — has undoubtedly reduced tooth decay and the consequences that result. There are some who will still deny, on an emotional basis, that fluoride can prevent these cavities. Whether they believe it or not the facts are definite and accepted by most dentists and research scientists.

A new plastic coating has been devised that promises even greater hope for the prevention of cavities and for retaining teeth that might otherwise be sacrificed to decay.

Dr. Eriberto I. Cuto and Dr. Michael G. Buonocore has been using a specially prepared resin with other plastic products to coat the biting surface of teeth. This is applied twice a year and has been remarkably effective in reducing the frequency of decay in a large series of cases in which it was tried.

These dental research scientists in Rochester, New York, have reported this significant contribution in the Journal of the American Dental Association, which carefully screens all new products before giving sanction to their use.

The work is still in the experimental phase but already shows that it is of special value in the treatment of children on whom drilling is particularly difficult.

It is believed that cracks, pits and fissures in the teeth can be sealed off to prevent decay until the children are old enough to have further work. If there are no toxic effects of this new plastic product it will be available for general use within the next year.

The terrible sounding name, schistosomiasis, refers to a parasite disease that sometimes seriously affects man. The parasite lives in snails and can be introduced to the human while swimming or bathing in infected waters.

This condition exists in the Middle East, Spain, Africa, Egypt and parts of South America. Rarely does it occur in the United States.

The parasite perforates the skin and later finds its way into the blood stream and then distributes itself in various organs of the body causing many serious complications. Up to the present time drugs of various kinds have been used for this disease, sometimes known as

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Some quietly enacted legislation and an unpublicized meeting of financiers here this week may lead to a huge increase in the amount of funds available to small but growing businesses.

The actions are bound to have a lasting and profound effect on the American economy.

For one thing, they are expected to be especially meaningful in financing growing companies through their critical adolescence, when they are still privately owned but are attempting to attract public investment in their shares.

The legislation and the meeting have come also at a critical time for some small businesses which, without proper funding in these times of recurring tight money, have been selling out to larger corporations.

The legislation, signed Oct. 11 by President Johnson, redesigns the nation's Small Business Investment Companies, which are independently owned financiers.

The job of these SBICs is to supply venture capital to small companies, which badly need it, greatly deserve it, but often cannot get it. Because they are licensed, regulated, take high risks and perform a needed function, the SBICs may borrow from the government some of this venture capital.

The October legislation has now greatly increased the amount SBICs may borrow for such reinvesting. For example, an SBIC with $4 million in private capital could borrow only $3.05 million under the old law, but $10 million under the new.

In addition, the government has made it much easier for the SBICs to attract money from other private sources by agreeing to subordinate its loans, that is, take second claim on assets.

Because they have assurance of first claim to repayment, private lenders are expected to be far more willing now to invest their money in SBICs. And as the SBICs grow, of course the more they can lend to small businesses.

These events, the culmination of a nine-year fight, led the way this week to a meeting of more than 20 SBICs and some of the largest suppliers of business capital, such as insurance companies, trust funds and pension funds.

OSP Hooks Into U.S. Crime Data

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Highway Patrol Supt. Robert Chiaramonte announced Friday the completion of a hookup of Patrol headquarters here with the National Crime Information Center computer in Washington, D.C.

Chiaramonte called it the first step in "a complete law enforcement computer system in Ohio."

He added that the connection with the FBI computer "gives us the ability to communicate directly... for instant access to information on stolen vehicles from throughout the nation, wanted felon, stolen property, weapons used in crimes, and other information of value to law enforcement."

The Columbus terminal also will feed information to the national computer on crimes occurring in Ohio, the superintendent said.

Corn, America's great food gift to the world, goes by many names. The Dutch, Hungarians and French sometimes call corn "Turkish wheat." The Turk call it "Egyptian corn" and Egyptians say "Syrian corn."

Hatlo's They'll Do It Every Time

A Dream of Peace

What man dreams of doing, he often is able to accomplish.

For instance, visionaries have been predicting for years that man someday will expand his living space on this planet by establishing cities under the sea.

Next year, the U. S. Navy plans to take the first step that would make this vision a reality. It will put teams of men into a steel "house" which will be submerged 430 to 600 feet below the surface of the sea. There the men will work and live, and add to scientists' knowledge of man's ability to adapt to such an artificial life.

The Navy isn't so much interested in undersea cities as it is in exploring the depths of the ocean. That in itself is the result of another dream.

When man knows the bottom of the seas, he will be master of those great bodies of water, be able to use them better for navigation, to reap better harvests of food from the sea, and to take out the rich minerals which the "dark unfathomed caves of ocean bear."

It pays to stop once in awhile and take in the many ways in which age-old dreams of man are coming true today. Instant communication, space travel, victory over disease, harnessing of nuclear power — there is an endless list.

There is no reason that man's advances should all be on the physical plane. There is a world-wide outcry for real international peace today. The natural reaction is that it is impossible, considering the nature of man.

Is it impossible, though? Remember man dreamed for centuries about exploring the bottom of the ocean, and finally that dream is being realized.

When man begins to dream about the impossible, he takes the first step toward making it possible.

Cause for Thanks

The average home-cooked dinner for four will cost $5.85 this year, down from $6.05 last year, according to projections. The decrease is attributed entirely to cost of turkeys, lowest in 27 years.

Thanksgiving dinner will cost less this year, is the amazing news which has been widely disseminated. If the cost were the same as last year consumers would have reason to rejoice.

GODDARD LIEBERSON, boss man of CBS Records, wiles away spare moments by insinuating people's names into old song titles. A few of his zanier inspirations: "When the Saints Come Ho Chi Minh"; "Gee, I Wish That I Had a Girl Just Like the Girl That Marat Dear Old Sade"; "It Happened At Martha Raye a Long Time Ago."

David Ewen, working on a biography of great composer Richard Rodgers, asked him "Who first awakened your interest in music?" "It was a teacher I had back in public school," recalled Rodgers, "A Miss Katz." "My, how proud she must be of you," exclaimed Ewen. "Have you any idea what's become of her?" "None," admitted Rodgers.

Ewen thereupon determined to track down Miss Katz, and at long last succeeded in his quest. "Richard Rodgers tells me," Ewen explained to the dear little old lady, "that you are the one who's really responsible for his interest in music." Miss Katz's reply was unexpected. "Richard Rodgers?" she mused. "I don't remember him at all!"

When Farmer Hawkins fell off the roof of his barn, thereby unfortunately bringing his life to an abrupt termination, his son had to fill out the forms necessary to collect the insurance. At the bottom of the form a space was left for "Remarks." The son carefully noted, "He didn't make none."

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Good dental hygiene — fluoride applications to the teeth and fluoride in water and toothpaste — has undoubtedly reduced tooth decay and the consequences that result. There are some who will still deny, on an emotional basis, that fluoride can prevent these cavities. Whether they believe it or not the facts are definite and accepted by most dentists and research scientists.

A new plastic coating has been devised that promises even greater hope for the prevention of cavities and for retaining teeth that might otherwise be sacrificed to decay.

Dr. Eriberio I. Cuto and Dr. Michael G. Buonocore have been using a specially prepared resin with other plastic products to coat the biting surface of teeth. This is applied twice a year and has been remarkably effective in reducing the frequency of decay in a large series of cases in which it was tried.

These dental research scientists in Rochester, New York, have reported this significant contribution in the Journal of the American Dental Association, which carefully screens all new products before giving sanction to their use.

The work is still in the experimental phase but already shows that it is of special value in the treatment of children on whom drilling is particularly difficult.

It is believed that cracks, pits and fissures in the teeth can be sealed off to prevent decay until the children are old enough to have further work. If there are no toxic effects of this new plastic product it will be available for general use within the next year.

The terrible sounding name, schistosomiasis, refers to a parasite disease that sometimes seriously affects man. The parasite lives in snails and can be introduced to the human while swimming or bathing in infected waters.

This condition exists in the Middle East, Spain, Africa, Egypt and parts of South America. Rarely does it occur in the United States.

The parasite perforates the skin and later finds its way into the blood stream and then distributes itself in various organs of the body causing many serious complications. Up to the present time drugs of various kinds have been used for this disease, sometimes known as

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tolerance has a crooked neck. This comes from leaning over backward not to appear intolerant.

The result is that violent demonstrations are getting more violent.

Freedom of expression, including the right to dissent, is a basic American right. But expressing dissent through violence is not a right. Only the peaceful kind is.

Violent expression is a national disgrace. If permitted to continue, it opens the door to anarchy since it is a defiance of law and order.

But there seems to be a public reluctance—and particularly on the part of government leadership—to urge and take strong action to prevent mass violence or to crush it fast if it occurs.

Both whites and Negroes have committed historic acts of violence in the past few months, even though for different reasons.

In Detroit last summer Negroes looted and burned but Michigan and national authorities showed great hesitancy to meet the violence with full force fast and crush it.

Then this week in New York where Secretary of State Dean Rusk spoke at a hotel, bands of anti-Vietnam war demonstrators, unable to pierce the police lines set up to protect Rusk, turned the night into a riot.

They pelted policemen, automobiles and buildings with stones, blood and resisted arrest. Forty of them were arrested and a number of persons, including five policemen were injured.

The steers' blood was supposed to symbolize human blood shed in Vietnam. The secretary of state had to slip into the hotel through its garage hours ahead of time to avoid the pickets.

Rusk and President Johnson have to travel under increased security guard and, reportedly, have had to cancel some of their public appearances when they learned thousands of antiwar pickets were waiting for them.

Although Johnson is in the No. 1 position to act against the increasing irresponsibility and public appearances when they violence he hasn't said much about it.

The roots of the violence probably go back into the 1950s when white liberals journeyed South to help Negroes test the discriminatory racial laws still on the books there.

Those were relatively peaceful expressions of protest and they were effective in arousing the country to the injustices against Negroes. But the idea of protest by direct action, first by peaceful picketing, caught on around the nation.

Bit by bit violence grew out of the demonstrations in schools and cities until some weeks ago a mob protesting the Vietnam war tried to force it way into the Pentagon.

It's a good guess that a number of the pickets—judging from their brainless actions—were mental emotional cases using the war as an excuse, conscious or not, to defy society or wreak vengeance on it.

It is a frightening commentary on the mood of the country that the President and Secretary of State have to travel under heavy guard, sneak in through a garage to make a speech, or call off visits and speeches altogether.

With the violence increasing, it poses an embarrassing question: How can Johnson, if he seeks a second term in the presidency next year, dare to make a speech in public during the campaign?

The No. 1 question is how to stop the violence. If it continues it is not hard to imagine some blood baths ahead as the violent ones among the demonstrators move from steers' blood to bombs and bullets.

WASHINGTON REPORT

From

WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
6th District, Ohio

It is time to curtail foreign spending.

As indicated by action last week in the House of Representatives, Americans are getting fed up with the way our nation's foreign aid program is going.

In spite of much arm-twisting responsible legislators in both parties joined protesting aid to nations that persist in trading with North Vietnam. Three more votes would have brought a halt to this nefarious business.

The House voted to trim the President's foreign aid giveaway program by nearly $800,000,000 and is working to cut another half billion dollars from a program that has outlived its original purpose.

Our foreign aid program began as emergency, post-war aid to help in reconstructing friendly and defeated nations. It has degenerated into a costly boondoggle that frequently subjects us to extortion and blackmail from experienced con men in nations who have little love for us or for the freedoms we claim to promote.

It's high time we opened our eyes to what our $130 billion have actually accomplished overseas.

American prestige abroad is at a lower level today than at any time in the modern history of our country.

Ninety percent of the 122 members of the United Nations have received assistance from the United States.

Some have put our dollars to excellent use. Taiwan, for instance, is now largely making her own way. Yet those receiving the most help in recent years are often the first to take sides with those who preach hatred against the U.S. in Asia and the Middle East.

In some countries, the dependency of millions of people has been increased. In others, autocratic regimes have been enabled to concentrate on heavy industry and war while we keep the ladder full. In some nations our assistance has kept tyrants in power earning for us the implacable hatred of subjugated people.

But the greatest wrong, in my opinion, is against the American working man who is already burdened with a crushing mountain of taxes and national debt.

We're going to hear a lot of vailing from proponents of foreign give away programs as the frustration of taxpayers if felt in Washington, but until we can balance our budget and settle some problems at home and in Vietnam, we have no business trying to buy friends abroad.

According to Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "What is it really like to be a newspaper columnist?"

That is the question readers most frequently ask and, after only 24 years in the industry, the one I find hardest to answer.

It was best described, in my opinion, by the late Don Marquis, who was a columnist for many years before he repented and became a playwright. He said of his former occupation that it amounted to "digging a daily grave."

There do seem to be some public misconceptions of a columnist's pattern of existence.

For example, some people feel he is a person who dwells in a penthouse, rides to work in a chauffeur-driven limousine, and has a salary adequate for the ransom of 12 captive princes. He is supposed to have lunch with industrial tycoons, spend his afternoons giving confidential advice to world-renowned diplomats and his evenings running his fingers through the minds, if any, of beautiful movie stars.

Beloved friends and dear questioners, that ain't quite the way a normal red-blooded American newspaper columnist really lives.

He lives, as most people do, on the edge of his personal desperation. He has two big problems in life: (1) to find a new idea each day that will save him from mental bankruptcy, and (2) to earn enough money to provide bread for his children and milk to keep his ulcers quiet.

His biggest yearning in life is somehow to find a way to surprise his wife with a fur coat — made of any kind of fur — before she expires.

The next-most-often-asked question that makes a newspaper columnist sigh is this one: "What do you do besides writing your column?"

The clear implication here is that it is somehow undignified or un-American for a man to do nothing but compose 500 words of prose a day, Monday through Friday. He is expected to have more than one arrow in his quiver.

Some columnists may do other things. Some moonlight by driving taxicabs over the weekend. Others try to achieve respectability by pretending they are writing a book.

The actual truth of the matter, however, is that a majority of columnists spend any spare time at their disposal in gnawing their fingernails or going to parties.

Several times a day a columnist gets by telegram or mail missives that begin:

"You are cordially invited to —"

"We'd be sincerely delighted to have your presence at —"

These invitations are for functions that run the full gamut from boredom to tedium.

In a single day it is possible for a columnist to be invited to the unveiling of a new tractor at the Waldorf, to gnaw cold salmon with a literary lion at the Plaza, or to act as a judge at the Americana in a contest to determine which secretary in Manhattan has the prettiest dimple on her left knee.

But a columnist's health is not measured by the number of cocktail parties he helps launch but by the number of such functions he has the strength to abstain from.

Most of the time he can have more fun just sitting there before an ominously silent typewriter, a vacant look on his face as he stares hopefully up at that same old familiar spot on the ceiling, wondering when the lightning will strike.

See you next Monday.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Some quietly enacted legislation and an unpublicized meeting of financiers here this week may lead to a huge increase in the amount of funds available to small but growing businesses.

The actions are bound to have a lasting and profound effect on the American economy.

For one thing, they are expected to be especially meaningful in financing growing companies through their critical adolescence, when they are still privately owned but are attempting to attract public investment in their shares.

The legislation and the meeting have come also at a critical time for some small businesses which, without proper funding in these times of recurring tight money, have been selling out to larger corporations.

The legislation, signed Oct. 11 by President Johnson, redesigns the nation's Small Business Investment Companies, which are independently owned financiers.

The job of these SBICs is to supply venture capital to small companies, which badly need it, greatly deserve it, but often cannot get it. Because they are licensed, regulated, take high risks and perform a needed function, the SBICs may borrow from the government some of this venture capital.

The October legislation has now greatly increased the amount SBICs may borrow for such reinvesting. For example, an SBIC with $4 million in private capital could borrow only $3.05 million under the old law, but $10 million under the new.

In addition, the government has made it much easier for the SBICs to attract money from other private sources by agreeing to subordinate its loans, that is, take second claim on assets.

Because they have assurance of first claim to repayment, private lenders are expected to be far more willing now to invest their money in SBICs. And as the SBICs grow, of course the more they can lend to small businesses.

These events, the culmination of a nine-year fight, led the way this week to a meeting of more than 20 SBICs and some of the largest suppliers of business capital, such as insurance companies, trust funds and pension funds.

The purpose of the meeting was to explore the establishment of a bank from which SBICs would have a continuous source of private funds for reinvesting in small companies.

As a result, the SBIC program, which has been in many difficulties during its short existence, is bound to be a far more potent economic force.

Do Classmates Mean Anything To Each Other

By JANICE PETTIBONE

Do you often wonder what it will be like not to have classmates around you to help you when you are worried or need company?

These past few weeks I think many members of the Senior Class have found out that even the absence of one member, such as Palma Welch, can make things a lot different.

Palma has been in the hospital for over a month now with a serious internal infection. Class members will tell you that Palma is a good natured person who is always ready to help everyone with a smile on her face.

She is deeply missed by everyone at TVHS and in the community.

We hope she will be back with our student body soon, but until then, how about cheering her up with some cards and flowers. Her address is Palma Welch, Room 717, University Hospital, Columbus, Ohio.

'Time Out for Ginger' Is Presentation of Drama Club

By SHEILA GARREN

Teays Valley Drama Club will present the play "Time Out for Ginger" Friday and again tonight.

Mr. Carol, played by Eric Mertins, starts everything off with a bang by making an exceedingly controversial speech to the high school kids. In his speech he says "No one should be forced to do anything he doesn't want to do."

His two older daughters, Joan played by Melanie Hedges, and Jeannie, played by Gail Trecker, interpret this to mean that they shouldn't have to take gym, and circulate petitions to that effect.

This causes a great deal of trouble in the community. Meanwhile, Mrs. Carol, played by Lynn Dountz, affectionately declares her husband to be "wonderfully insane".

The real trouble comes when Ginger, Mr. Carol's younger daughter, played by Becky Stout, decides that this means she has the right to go out for football. This causes an uproar with Mr. Wilson the high school principal, played by Stan Will, and Mr. Hoffman, president of the bank, played by Ed Combs. Tommy Green, Ginger's boy-

By BECKY YOUNG

The Teays Valley faculty defeated the All-American Red-head team Saturday in the TV gym. The score rested at the final period 63 to 62 in favor of the faculty.

The leading scorer for the faculty was Robert Hoover, head football and reserve basketball coach at TV, with 22 points. Bennis Lutz was next for the faculty with 18 points.

Other scorers for the TV team were Ed Johnson with 8 points, Jim Calhoun with 7 points, Terry Barthelmas with 6 points, and Jack Weikert with 2 points. Other team members were Stanley Yabroff and Dan Evans.

Miss Brenda Moon was leading scorer for the Redheads with 25 markers. Miss Jo Ammons was next with 15 points for the losers.

Other scorers were Miss Becky Harp, the comical girl of the group, with 11 markers, Debbie Smith with 8 points, and Miss Mary Parsons with 3 points.

A crowd of about 800 attended the game. Before the game got underway, Miss Watkins, the modern dance instructor, and her drill team performed an exhibition of drills and rhythm routines. They performed routines to the music of Herb Alpert and the Tijuana Brass.

Hatcher Says Gary Could Have Riots

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Richard G. Hatcher, the Negro mayor-elect of Gary, Ind., says the chance of a riot in his city is about as probable as in any American city.

"I think it is not a very good thing to speculate publicly about disorders," Hatcher said Friday in the state where his parents were born.

He said the potential for a riot in Gary, a steel manufacturing city of 178,000, is "just about the same in every city in this country." Gary's population is about 55 per cent Negro.

Urban rioting could end, he said, "if we would face the fact that there is something almost obscene about people living under conditions we would not want animals to live in."

Hatcher, whose parents were born in Macon, Ga., was in Atlanta for a program commemorating Lincoln's oration of the Gettysburg Address in 1863.

He said his victory at the polls last week represents a triumph for Black Power, which he said is a concept "not necessarily bad."

God's Unwavering Compassion

GOD PLEADS WITH HIS WAYWARD PEOPLE TO RETURN TO HIM

Scripture—Hosea 11, 14.

By R. H. RAMSEY

HOSEA was the prophet of love. Certainly he denounced his nation, as did most of the other prophets, for there was much to denounce. But his major emphasis was upon the reality of God's love for His wayward people and the immensity of Israel's sin in disregarding it and transgressing upon it.

Pleading with his people, Hosea likened Israel's relationship with God to that of a wife with her husband, an allegory that was a dreadful reality in his own life, for his wife had proved faithless. As Gomer had been unfaithful to Hosea, so Israel had been unfaithful to her God. Remembering the agony his unhappy home life had cost him, Hosea urged the people to remember their God, repent and return to Him.

Chapter 11's metaphor of God as a parent teaching a child to walk, taking him in His arms, loving him and caring for him despite his waywardness, suggests that Hosea, as a father, might have suffered from the acts of rebellious children, as well as those of an unfaithful wife.

When Israel was a child—

will suffer Assyrian invasion and captivity from which she will never return to Canaan as a nation, though some individuals and small groups will return to form a post-exile Israel with the remnants of the tribes of Judah.

As with all the prophetic books of the Old Testament and the Book of Revelation in the New Testament, Hosea ends with victory for God and perfect fellowship between Him and His people. The thunder and lightning of God's wrath has subsided; the denunciations of sin are over. Though his mind cannot be changed and Israel will be punished, God's love abides. He reaches out to His people, reminding them they have fallen because of their iniquities.

Confess your sins, Hosea urges; repudiate the idols which drew you away, repent truly and ask God's forgiveness. They will be received graciously, Hosea assures them, for God will bless His people whom He has brought to reflection and repentance by means of the judgment.

While some of Hosea's listeners believed he meant the Lord would deliver them from As-

GOLDEN TEXT

"The Lord hath appeared of old unto me, saying, Yea, I have loved thee with an everlasting love: therefore with lovingkindness have I drawn thee."—Jeremiah 31:3.

When the twelve tribes were living in Egypt—the Lord called them out of bondage, set His love upon them and interposed to save them.

Yet, even before the exodus was complete, the newly-emancipated people had yielded to Baal worship and burned incense to graven images. Despite this God continued gracious to His chosen people. When they strayed too far, he sent prophets to bring them back to His ways. However, Hosea offers the opinion that all God's efforts through His prophets had served only to increase Israel's obstinacy.

Israel's deserved punishment for her unfaithfulness, but God was reluctant to inflict it upon her. Through Hosea He bemoaned their infidelity, and set forth His love and willingness to save them from exile and oblivion at the hands of their enemies.

Still, God's love for His people did not move Him to set aside the demands of His righteousness and justice. Israel will be judged for her multiple sins. Within a few short years she syria, the prophet declares this untrue. Instead he looks forward to a time when Israel will put her trust only in the Lord and He will heal their wounds and again bestow the blessings of His grace upon them. He will cure their apostasy and love them in spite of themselves. And the intelligent and prudent among them will come to the conclusion that the ways of God are right and true. Consequently the righteous are able to walk in them while the wicked stumble and fall.

Ultimately, as God knew they would, the Northern Kingdom rejected His offer and continued in their idolatry, social injustices and immorality. Invaded by the Assyrians, they were carried off in 722 B.C. and practically disappeared from the pages of history.

The Southern Kingdom was more fortunate. Though partially destroyed in 586 B.C., it continued as a nation until 70 A.D., when Rome destroyed Jerusalem and scattered the people to the ends of the earth.

Do Classmates Mean Anything To Each Other

By JANICE PETTIBONE

Do you often wonder what it will be like not to have classmates around you to help you when you are worried or need company?

These past few weeks I think many members of the Senior Class have found out that even the absence of one member, such as Palma Welch, can make things a lot different.

Palma has been in the hospital for over a month now with a serious internal infection. Class members will tell you that Palma is a good natured person who is always ready to help everyone with a smile on her face.

She is deeply missed by everyone at TVHS and in the community.

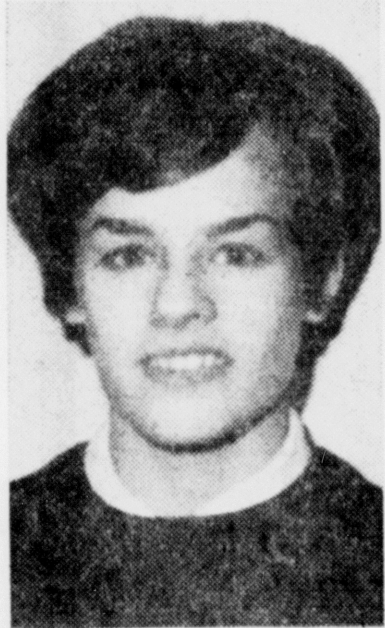

We hope she will be back with our student body soon, but until then, how about cheering her up with some cards and flowers. Her address is Palma Welch, Room 717, University Hospital, Columbus, Ohio.

'Time Out for Ginger' Is Presentation of Drama Club

By SHEILA GARREN

Teays Valley Drama Club will present the play "Time Out for Ginger" Friday and again tonight.

Mr. Carol, played by Eric Mertins, starts everything off with a bang by making an exceedingly controversial speech to the high school kids. In his speech he says "No one should be forced to do anything he doesn't want to do."

His two older daughters, Joan played by Melanie Hedges, and Jeannie, played by Gail Trecker, interpret this to mean that they shouldn't have to take gym, and circulate petitions to that effect.

This causes a great deal of trouble in the community. Meanwhile, Mrs. Carol, played by Lynn Dountz, affectionately declares her husband to be "wonderfully insane".

The real trouble comes when Ginger, Mr. Carol's younger daughter, played by Becky Stout, decides that this means she has the right to go out for football. This causes an uproar with Mr. Wilson the high school principal, played by Stan Will, and Mr. Hoffman, president of the bank, played by Ed Combs.

Hatcher Says Gary Could Have Riots

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Richard G. Hatcher, the Negro mayor-elect of Gary, Ind., says the chance of a riot in his city is about as probable as in any American city.

"I think it is not a very good thing to speculate publicly about disorders," Hatcher said Friday in the state where his parents were born.

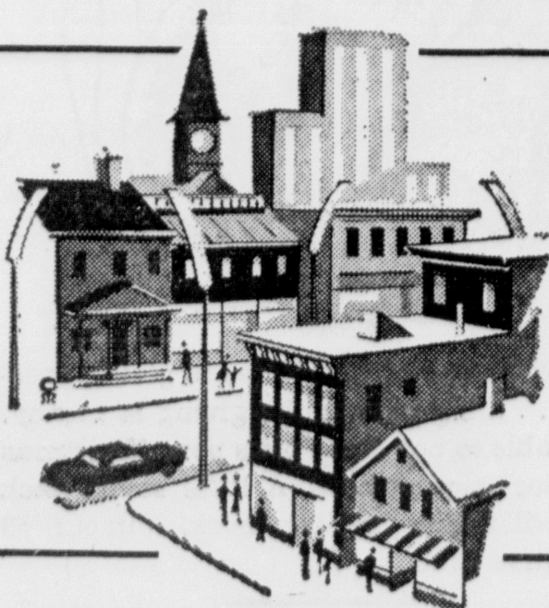

He said the potential for a riot in Gary, a steel manufacturing city of 178,000, is "just about the same in every city in this country." Gary's population is about 55 per cent Negro.

Urban rioting could end, he said, "if we would face the fact that there is something almost obscene about people living under conditions we would not want animals to live in."

Hatcher, whose parents were born in Macon, Ga., was in Atlanta for a program commemorating Lincoln's oration of the Gettysburg Address in 1863.

He said his victory at the polls last week represents a triumph for Black Power, which he said is a concept "not necessarily bad."

God's Unwavering Compassion

GOD PLEADS WITH HIS WAYWARD PEOPLE TO RETURN TO HIM

Scripture—Hosea 11, 14.

By R. H. RAMSEY

HOSEA was the prophet of love. Certainly he denounced his nation, as did most of the other prophets, for there was much to denounce. But his major emphasis was upon the reality of God's love for His wayward people and the immensity of Israel's sin in disregarding it and transgressing upon it.

Pleading with his people, Hosea likened Israel's relationship with God to that of a wife with her husband, an allegory that was a dreadful reality in his own life, for his wife had proved faithless. As Gomer had been unfaithful to Hosea, so Israel had been unfaithful to her God. Remembering the agony his unhappy home life had cost him, Hosea urged the people to remember their God, repent and return to Him.

Chapter 11's metaphor of God as a parent teaching a child to walk, taking him in His arms, loving him and caring for him despite his waywardness, suggests that Hosea, as a father, might have suffered from the acts of rebellious children, as well as those of an unfaithful wife.

When Israel was a child —

GOLDEN TEXT

"The Lord hath appeared of old unto me, saying, Yea, I have loved thee with an everlasting love: therefore with lovingkindness have I drawn thee."—Jeremiah 31:3.

When the twelve tribes were living in Egypt—the Lord called them out of bondage, set His love upon them and interposed to save them.

Yet, even before the exodus was complete, the newly-empowered people had yielded to Baal worship and burned incense to graven images. Despite this God continued gracious to His chosen people. When they strayed too far, he sent prophets to bring them back to His ways.

However, Hosea offers the opinion that all God's efforts through His prophets had served only to increase Israel's obstinacy. Israel deserved punishment for her unfaithfulness, but God was reluctant to inflict it upon her. Through Hosea He bewailed their infidelity, and set forth His love and willingness to save them from exile and oblivion at the hands of their enemies.

Still, God's love for His people did not move Him to set aside the demands of His righteousness and justice. Israel will be judged for her multiple sins. Within a few short years she will suffer Assyrian invasion and captivity from which she will never return to Canaan as a nation, though some individuals and small groups will return to form a post-exile Israel with the remnants of the tribes of Judah.

As with all the prophetic books of the Old Testament and the Book of Revelation in the New Testament, Hosea ends with victory for God and perfect fellowship between Him and His people. The thunder and lightning of God's wrath has subsided; the denunciations of sin are over. Though his mind cannot be changed and Israel will be punished, God's love abides. He reaches out to His people, reminding them they have fallen because of their iniquities.

Confess your sins, Hosea urges; repudiate the idols which drew you away, repent truly and ask God's forgiveness. They will be received graciously, Hosea assures them, for God will bless His people whom He has brought to reflection and repentance by means of the judgment.

While some of Hosea's listeners believed he meant the Lord would deliver them from Assyria, the prophet declares this untrue. Instead he looks forward to a time when Israel will put her trust only in the Lord and He will heal their wounds and again bestow the blessings of His grace upon them. He will cure their apostasy and love them in spite of themselves. And the intelligent and prudent among them will come to the conclusion that the ways of God are right and true. Consequently the righteous are able to walk in them while the wicked stumble and fall.

Ultimately, as God knew they would, the Northern Kingdom rejected His offer and continued in their idolatry, social injustices and immorality. Invaded by the Assyrians, they were carried off in 722 B.C. and practically disappeared from the pages of history.

The Southern Kingdom was more fortunate. Though partially destroyed in 586 B.C., it continued as a nation until 70 A.D., when Rome destroyed Jerusalem and scattered the people to the ends of the earth.

Nuptial Vows Repeated In Trinity Lutheran Church

MR. AND MRS. CHESTER IERY JR.

Before the candlelit altar of the Trinity Lutheran Church, the Rev. Carl G. Zehner read the double ring service uniting in marriage Miss Cathy Wardell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wardell, 400 Walnut Creek Pike, and Chester Iery Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Iery Sr., 355 Sunnyview Drive, 8:30 p. m. Oct. 20.

The altar was decorated with gold vases of yellow gladioli, emerald foliage and gold candleabra. The aisles were marked with white ribbons.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Thomas Downing, organist. She played such selections as "O Promise Me", "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring", "Wedding Bells", and "O Perfect Love".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length ivory peau-de-soie and re-embroidered alencon lace sheath gown. The empire bodice was accented with lace motifs encrusted with seed pearls, a scalloped sabrina neckline and long sleeves tapered over the hands. Her detachable train fell gracefully from mid-back to chapel length.

Her bouffant veil of silk illusion was held in place by a peau and lace petal plateau. She carried a cascade of eight large, pale yellow mums caught by a golden ribbon.

Ellen Lee Jenkins of Circleville was maid of honor and Barbara Wardell, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. They both wore identical dresses of brandy velvet and ivory brocade fashioned with scooped necklines, empire waists and A-line skirts. Flowing from the neckline to the full length of the dress were matching nosegays of velvet and ribbon.

Their headpieces were brandy Dior bows with pouf veils and they carried cascades fashioned of bronze and yellow pompon mums.

Serving as best man was David Iery, brother of the groom. Mike McCall, cousin of the groom of Portsmouth and David Holsinger, a college friend who lives in Columbus, served as ushers.

Mrs. Wardell chose for her daughter's wedding an emerald colored knit dress. Accessories in gray completed her outfit. Mrs. Iery wore a brown two piece suit with matching hat and accessories. Each wore a corsage of bronze and yellow mums.

A reception was held in the Lutheran parish house immediately following the ceremony. The three tiered cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom figurine, was encircled with bronze and yellow pompons and greenery.

Hostesses were Mrs. Magdalene Fee and Mrs. Edna Imnell, aunts of the bride; Mrs. D. A. Marshall; Mrs. Julia Meadows, Mrs. Ellen Louise Wisecup and Mrs. Virginia Gifford, cousins of the bride; and Miss Cathy McCall, cousin of the groom. They were presented with white organdy aprons by the bride.

Miss Gloria Gerhardt presided at the guest book.

For a wedding trip to Miami Beach, Fla., the bride wore a green knit suit, black accessories and a green cymbidium corsage.

The couple is now living at 464 E. Franklin St. Mr. Iery is employed by Ralston Purina Co. and is attending Franklin University. Mrs. Iery is employed by the Third National Bank.

Bridal showers were given by Magdalene Fee, an aunt of the bride; Patty Horn, Ellen Jenkins, Gloria Barr and Ginger Smalley, co-workers at the Third National Bank.

Wardell, 400 Walnut Creek Pike, and Chester Iery Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Iery Sr., 355 Sunnyview Drive, 8:30 p. m. Oct. 20.

The altar was decorated with gold vases of yellow gladioli, emerald foliage and gold candles. The aisles were marked with white ribbons.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Thomas Downing, organist. She played such selections as "O Promise Me", "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring", "Wedding Bells", and "O Perfect Love".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length ivory peau-de-soie and re-embroidered alencon lace sheath gown. The empire bodice was accented with lace motifs encrusted with seed pearls, a scalloped sabbina neckline and long sleeves tapered over the hands. Her detachable train fell gracefully from mid-back to chapel length.

Her bouffant veil of silk illusion was held in place by a peau and lace petal plateau. She carried a cascade of eight large, pale yellow mums caught by a golden ribbon.

Ellen Lee Jenkins of Circleville was maid of honor and Barbara Wardell, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. They both wore identical dresses of brandy velvet and ivory brocade fashioned with scooped necklines, empire waists and A-line skirts. Flowing from the neckline to the full length of the dress were matching nosegays of velvet and ribbon.

Their headpieces were brandy Dior bows with pouf veils and they carried cascades fashioned of bronze and yellow pompon mums.

Serving as best man was David Iery, brother of the groom. Mike McCall, cousin of the groom of Portsmouth and David Holsinger, a college friend who lives in Columbus, served as ushers.

Mrs. Wardell chose for her daughter's wedding an emerald colored knit dress. Accessories in gray completed her outfit. Mrs. Iery wore a brown two piece suit with matching hat and accessories. Each wore a corsage of bronze and yellow mums.

A reception was held in the Lutheran parish house immediately following the ceremony. The three tiered cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom figurine, was encircled with bronze and yellow pompons and greenery.

Hostesses were Mrs. Magdalene Fee and Mrs. Edna Im-mell, aunts of the bride; Mrs. D. A. Marshall; Mrs. Julia Meadows, Mrs. Ellen Louise Wisecup and Mrs. Virginia Gifford, cousins of the bride; and Miss Cathy McCall, cousin of the groom. They were presented with white organza aprons by the bride.

Miss Gloria Gerhardt presided at the guest book.

For a wedding trip to Miami Beach, Fla., the bride wore a green knit suit, black accessories and a green cymbidium corsage.

The couple is now living at 464 E. Franklin St. Mr. Iery is employed by Ralston Purina Co. and is attending Franklin University. Mrs. Iery is employed by the Third National Bank.

Bridal showers were given by Magdalene Fee, an aunt of the bride; Patty Horn, Ellen Jenkins, Gloria Barr and Ginger Smalley, co-workers at the Third National Bank.

Pickaway Sports Perspective

By STEVE JONES

The Circleville football team wrapped up its season with presentation of awards and appropriate remarks at the annual banquet Thursday.

Remarks by Coach Paul Starr included: "Contrary to rumor, I will serve you all for many years," and "They may be number eight in the state but they are number one in the hearts of everybody here tonight." Coach Chuck Hill said of his fall sport: "Cross country is a difficult and trying sport. There is little thanks and few honors. Few people watch it. But it is a real test of courage and fortitude."

Coach Starr has his season behind him and is looking forward to relaxing on Saturdays and Sundays with his family.

Coach Hill has already started working with the basketball team. The busy mentor has the fullest schedule of all the coaches. He is head cross country coach, this year is coaching both the varsity and reserve basketball teams and is also the head baseball coach.

Many of the candidates for Coach Kent Carpenter's wrestling squad are already pursuing rigorous diets and weight reducing training programs.

The official weigh-in period for Ohio high school wrestlers is the third week of December. After that time, no boy may participate in a lower weight class.

Weight, experience, strength and overall ability are key factors in the highly scientific and exciting sport.

The basketball turnout was not swelled appreciably at the end of the football season. Coach Hill noted one guard prospect from last year's reserve team who he anticipated on helping the squad apparently did not plan to vie for a berth on the squad.

Hill planned to make the final cut for the squad Friday. A full day of scrimmage sessions was on tap today.

Raiders Favored To Beat Dolphins

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Oakland Raiders will have almost everything going for them Sunday when they'll attempt to solidify their Western Division lead in the American Football League by defeating the Miami Dolphins in one of four games on the circuit's schedule.

The Raiders will be at home, well rested because they were off last week. They are riding a four-game winning streak while the Dolphins have lost seven in a row.

In addition, the Raiders' closest pursuers, San Diego and Kansas City, will be meeting on the Chiefs' field. New York is at Boston and Denver at Buffalo in the other game. Houston is not scheduled.

The Oakland-Miami game will be the only one between the two this season. The Raiders, leading San Diego by one half game and Kansas City by 1½, defeated the Dolphins twice last year, 23-14 and 21-10.

Kansas City, defending league champion, has scored 127 points and yielded only 37 in putting together a three-game victory string. The Chiefs will be coming off their 33-10 triumph over Boston in which Lenny Dawson completed 19 of 26 aerials for 186 yards and two touchdowns.

San Diego beat the Chiefs 45-31 earlier this season as Dick Post gained 116 yards in 15 carries and caught four passes for 45 yards.

Boston plans to start Don Trull at quarterback in place of Babe Parilli against the Jets, who can increase their Eastern Division leading margin over runnerup Houston to 1½ games. The Patriots' Jim Nance, the circuit's rushing leader, gained only 55 yards in nine carries against Kansas City a week ago.

New York, with a 6-21 mark, downed Buffalo 20-10 last week as Joe Namath hit on 13 of 37 passes for 338 yards and one touchdown.

Denver has lost nine games in a row but came close to ending the skid last week before bowing to the Oilers, 20-18. Buffalo has won nine in a row against the Broncos, including a 17-16 triumph in a previous meeting this year.

Spencer-Quarry Fight Readied

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Thad Spencer-Jerry Quarry heavyweight elimination fight appear headed for the Oakland Arena on Feb. 3.

Fight promoter Don Chargin in Las Vegas Friday night for the Dick Tiger-Roger Rouse bout, told friends here by telephone he expects Quarry and Spencer to sign contracts after Thanksgiving.

Circleville Cagers Pared To 11 Members in Final Cut

Circleville cage coach Chuck Hill has cut the varsity basketball squad to 11 members and has continued workouts prepping for the opening contest Nov. 24 at Westfall.

The team consists of four seniors and seven juniors. Seniors are Jeff Steele, Rick Congrove, Mark Downing and George Hill. Juniors are Dave Horst, Gene Dyke, Dave Hopkins, Tom Yeatts, Mike Young, Phil Diehl and Mike Neal.

Steele, Congrove and Horst all saw action on last year's varsity squad. All others except Hill were active on the reserve squad.

Hill is working out with the team, but a severe "charlie horse" may keep him from participating.

Greenfield, Miami Trace and Wilmington are expected to make the race for the SCO crown a tight one. The McClain Tigers have 10 seniors and four juniors on the varsity squad. All State prospects Steve Sieg, 6-5, and Bob Bristley, 6-2, bring Coach Paul Hager a lot of experience.

Miami Trace, playing possibly the toughest schedule outside the league, will have guards Ed Summers and Bob Thornsberry back on varsity. The Panthers will face Bishop Ready Lancaster, Chillicothe, North eastern, Grove City, Pleasant View, London and Greenon.

Wilmington will revolve around John Petty, 6-4 center. Dayton Stivers, Hamilton Taft, Franklin, Springfield North, Cincinnati Moeller and Xenia are strong names on the Hurricane schedule.

Wilmington will also play in the Holiday Tournament Dec. 21-22 at Wilmington College. Hillsboro will have a small squad including eight seniors and five juniors. Among the tallest is 6-3 junior Richard Beatty. Seniors who saw action last year include Dave Marshall, Mike Couch, Steve Coffman, Jerry Walker and Mike Yochum.

Pickaway Sports Perspective

By STEVE JONES

The Circleville football team wrapped up its season with presentation of awards and appropriate remarks at the annual banquet Thursday.

Remarks by Coach Paul Starr included: "Contrary to rumor, I will serve you all for many years," and "They may be number eight in the state but they are number one in the hearts of everybody here tonight."

Coach Chuck Hill said of his fall sport: "Cross country is a difficult and trying sport. There is little thanks and few honors. Few people watch it. But it is a real test of courage and fortitude."

Coach Starr has his season behind him and is looking forward to relaxing on Saturdays and Sundays with his family.

Coach Hill has already started working with the basketball team. The busy mentor has the fullest schedule of all the coaches. He is head cross country coach, this year is coaching both the varsity and reserve basketball teams and is also the head baseball coach.

Many of the candidates for Coach Kent Carpenter's wrestling squad are already pursuing rigorous diets and weight reducing training programs.

The official weigh-in period for Ohio high school wrestlers is the third week of December. After that time, no boy may participate in a lower weight class.

Weight, experience, strength and overall ability are key factors in the highly scientific and exciting sport.

The basketball turnout was not swelled appreciably at the end of the football season. Coach Hill noted one guard prospect from last year's reserve team who he anticipated on helping the squad apparently did not plan to vie for a berth on the squad.

Hill planned to make the final cut for the squad Friday. A full day of scrimmage sessions was on tap today.

Raiders Favored To Beat Dolphins

By BEN OLAN

Associated Press Sports Writer
The Oakland Raiders will have almost everything going for them Sunday when they'll attempt to solidify their Western Division lead in the American Football League by defeating the Miami Dolphins in one of four games on the circuit's schedule.

The Raiders will be at home, well rested because they were off last week. They are riding a four-game winning streak while the Dolphins have lost seven in a row.

In addition, the Raiders' closest pursuers, San Diego and Kansas City, will be meeting on the Chief's field. New York is at Boston and Denver at Buffalo in the other game. Houston is not scheduled.

Pipers Top New Orleans In ABA Tilt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Charles "Chico" Vaughn, former Southern Illinois star, had one of his biggest nights in pro basketball Friday night.

He sank a 10-foot jump shot at the final buzzer to climax a 34-point performance and give the Pittsburgh Pipers a 95-94 home court victory over New Orleans in the American Basketball Association.

The victory was the fifth straight for the Pipers and put them only two games back of first place Indiana and just half a game shy of second place Minnesota in the Eastern Division.

New Orleans, the Western Division leader, saw its margin over the second place Denver Rockets cut to 1½ games as the Rocket whipped New Jersey 120-114 at Teaneck, N.J. Dallas, playing at home, beat Houston 116-107 in the other scheduled ABA game.

Circleville Cagers Pared To 11 Members in Final Cut

Circleville cage coach Chuck Hill has cut the varsity basketball squad to 11 members and has continued workouts prepping for the opening contest Nov. 24 at Westfall.

The team consists of four seniors and seven juniors. Seniors are Jeff Steele, Rick Congrove, Mark Downing and George Hill. Juniors are Dave Horst, Gene Dyke, Dave Hopkins, Tom Yeatts, Mike Young, Phil Diehl and Mike Neal.

Steele, Congrove and Horst all saw action on last year's varsity squad. All others except Hill were active on the reserve squad.

Hill is working out with the team, but a severe "charlie horse" may keep him from participating.

Greenfield, Miami Trace and Wilmington are expected to make the race for the SCO crown a real tight one. The McClain Tigers have 10 seniors and four juniors on the varsity squad. All State prospects Steve Sieg, 6-5, and Bob Bristley, 6-2, bring Coach Paul Hager a lot of experience.

Miami Trace, playing possibly the toughest schedule outside the league, will have guards Ed Summers and Bob Thornberry back on varsity. The Panthers will face Bishop Ready Lancaster, Chillicothe, North Eastern, Grove City, Pleasant View, London and Greenon.

Wilmington will revolve around John Petty, 6-4 center. Dayton Stivers, Hamilton Taft, Franklin, Springfield North, Cincinnati Moeller and Xenia are strong names on the Hurricane schedule.

Wilmington will also play in the Holiday Tournament Dec. 21-22 at Wilmington College.

Hillsboro will have a small squad including eight seniors and five juniors. Among the tallest is 6-3 junior Richard Beatty. Seniors who saw action last year include Dave Marshall, Mike Couch, Steve Coffman, Jerry Walker and Mike Yochum.

Here is the complete league schedule:

Nov. 22 — Bishop Ready at Miami Trace; Hillsboro at Lebanon.

Dallas-Redskins Clash Spotlited

The Dallas-Washington clash, suddenly one of pro football's hottest rivalries, figures to steal some of the attention from Baltimore, Green Bay and the three-team struggle in the National Football League's Century Division in weekend games.

The last four games between the Redskins and Cowboys have been decided by a total of 10 points with a total time of one minute, 41 seconds remaining.

Dallas, 7-2 and leading the Capitol Division by three games, is a solid choice over Washington, 3-4-2, in the Sunday afternoon game at Dallas, but two recent developments make it look a little tighter.

Cowboy quarterback Don Meredith still is troubled by a sore shoulder, and the Redskins have ace receiver Charley Taylor back in action after missing most of the last three games with a pulled hamstring muscle. The game will be televised (CBS-TV) to most sections of the country as the second half of the television doubleheader, beginning at 4 p.m., EST.

Baltimore, 7-0-2, risks its unbeaten record at home against Detroit, 3-4-2, and rebounding Green Bay, 6-2-1, is at home against tough San Francisco, 5-4 in a couple of other major attractions.

Hackett concedes that Romulus, who drew the No. 1 post position to No. 3 for Best of All, is the horse to beat. "I'm not worried about Meadow Paige or the rest of them," he said.

Meadow Paige is part of the three-horse Houghton entry along with Meadow Elva and Romulus. Because the entry probably would have been bet heavily, leading to a possible $75,000 minus pool, the mile race has been made a non-betting event.

Browns Fans To Get Look At Joe Kapp

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland fans get their first look at quarterback Joe Kapp Sunday, but Browns' Coach Blanton Collier already has an idea what to expect from the Minnesota Vikings' passer.

"Kapp seems to have the necessary qualities to inspire the team to play good football," Collier said. He added that the Vikings have a good running and passing attack and "the quarterback to direct it."

This will only be the second regular season game between the two clubs. The Vikings won 27-17 at Cleveland in 1965. It's the first of three straight home games for the Browns, who were buried 55-7 by the Green Bay Packers last Sunday.

Collier, asked what a defeat like that does to morale, said, "We're in the wrong league if we have no confidence. I'll be the most disappointed man in football today if we don't come back and play football."

The coach said he was making no predictions, "just that we come back and play football. We believe in ourselves and we can go back to doing certain things and succeed."

Running back Ernie Green and defensive back Ernie Barnes both have shoulder injuries and are doubtful starters. Rookie Larry Conjar from Notre Dame will go if Green can't start and Ben Davis would replace Barnes.

The Browns are 5-4 in the National Football League's Century Division while Minnesota, after a 10-10 tie with Detroit last week, has a 2-5-2 mark in the Central Division.

Laurelville Romps To 95-55 Victory Over Huntington

Laurelville High School's Wildcats made their first win of the basketball season a big one, romping to a 95-55 victory over Huntington, the host school.

The Wildcats trailed 30-27 at halftime, but came alive in the second half. Pouring points through the basket at the rate of four a minute, the Hocking County cagers outscored the Huntsmen, 68-25 in the second half.

Bob Bowers, the Cat's rangy 6-4 center, did everything well last night, scoring 35 points on 13 field goals and nine foul shots, and grabbing 17 rebounds in the game.

Nine of his rebounds came off the offensive boards in the second half giving Laurelville a big boost in the scoring margin.

GOOD floor games by Mike Kneec, Jeff Whitcraft, Bob Harmon and Mike Chestnut helped the big center in his scoring effort according to Clyde Crewey, Wildcat coach.

In all, Laurelville had 50 rebounds in the game. Also breaking into the scoring column were Kneec with 15, Whitcraft with 12, and Gerald Disbennett, Harmon, Chestnut and Mike Shaw with seven each. Dave Bernard and Dave McCabe also played in the tilt, although they did not score.

The Wildcats made 64 per cent of their free throws, a big jump from last week's loss to Zane Trace when they made less than 25 per cent.

The leading scorers for Huntington were Danny Kemper and Dave Payne with 15 each. The host school had no player over 6-feet tall.

The Wildcat junior varsity also won its game on the Huntington hardwood last night.

Tonight, Laurelville plays at Southeastern. Huntington has an 0-2 record this year while the Wildcats now stand at 1-2.

Golfing
with ALEX MORRISON
Teacher of Champions

Al Besselink clearly shows a steady head position long after striking the ball.

AL BESSELINK, practicing for the Bob Hope Classic, kept his head steady long after striking the ball.

While taking photos I remarked, "You certainly are holding your head steady."

Al added, "I have always done that."

The increased use of this essential mainly accounts for improvements in the modern pro's club swinging and shot making. It will afford proportionate improvements for all golfers.

Extensive study and tests with all kinds of players show the best head control is had only by using the Morrison Key of Chin Pointing, keeping the chin pointed at the ball without raising, lowering or turning until after impact.

Golfers with limited play and practice can improve immediately by giving most of their attention to chin pointing.

First attempts will be more successful when playing shorter easier shots and keeping the chin pointed to the very finish of the swing.

Trojans, Bruins Top-Grid Card

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
UCLA's battling Bruins have Gary Beban, a javelin thrower from Canada, and a string of fetching Pom Pom girls. The pollsters say they're No. 1. Southern California's dashing Trojans have Orange Juice Simpson, a linebacker from Ireland and a famous fight song. The oddsmakers say they can't be beat.

Something has to give when the two West Coast titans bump heads today in a nationally televised (ABC, 4:30 p.m., EST) showdown—but it figures to be touch-and-go to the finish.

The top-ranked Bruins, 7-0-1, are three-point underdogs against the Trojans, who slipped from No. 1 to No. 4 last week after Oregon State snapped their eight-game winning streak.

At stake are the Pacific 8 Conference title, the host berth in the Rose Bowl, and quite possibly, the national championship and the Heisman Trophy—top individual prize in college football.

Indiana's unbeaten Hoosiers, ranked No. 5, went after their ninth victory and the other Rose Bowl spot when they took on rugged Minnesota at Minneapolis. A victory for the Gophers, however, would give them the inside track as the Big 10's representative at Pasadena Jan. 1.

Wyoming, the only other unbeaten, untied major power at 9-0, winds up its regular season at the University of Texas-El Paso tonight. Both the sixth-ranked Cowboys and the high-scoring Miners, 5-1-1, hoped to nail bowl bids.

Second-ranked Tennessee met Mississippi at Memphis, Tenn., No. 3 Purdue entertained Michigan State, No. 7 Oklahoma hosted Kansas, No. 8 Oregon State was at Oregon; No. 9 Notre Dame at Georgia Tech and No. 10 North Carolina State at Clemson.

Alabama visited South Carolina; Army was at Pitt; Colorado at Kansas State; Idaho at Houston; Nebraska at Missouri; TCU at Texas and Yale at Princeton in other top attractions.

In Friday night's only major games, Wake Forest drubbed Maryland 35-17 and Toledo trimmed Dayton 21-7.

IT'S THAT TIME OF SEASON—Deer hunters are out and the bucks and does are on the move. Here's one at Appleton, Wis., which seems to have its antlers caught on a small tree.

Royals Beat Celts 120-119

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Cincinnati Royals must be happy to have Happy Hairston in their lineup. So, too, are the Philadelphia 76ers.

Hairston's heroics in the final minutes helped Cincinnati beat the Boston Celtics 120-119 Friday night, knocking the Celtics out of first place in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association.

Philadelphia replaced the Celts in the top position by defeating the St. Louis Hawks 125-117 in the opener of a doubleheader at Baltimore. In the second game, the Bullets downed the Los Angeles Lakers, 116-107.

In other games, San Francisco edged Chicago 111-109 and Seattle topped San Diego 130-124.

Golfing

with ALEX MORRISON
Teacher of Champions

Al BesseLink clearly shows a steady head position long after striking the ball.

AL BESSELINK, practicing for the Bob Hope Classic, kept his head steady long after striking the ball.

While taking photos I remarked, "You certainly are holding your head steady."

Al added, "I have always done that."

The increased use of this essential mainly accounts for improvements in the modern pro's club swinging and shot making. It will afford proportionate improvements for all golfers.

Extensive study and tests with all kinds of players show the best head control is had only by using the Morrison Key of Chin Pointing, keeping the chin pointed at the ball without raising, lowering or turning until after impact.

Golfers with limited play and practice can improve immediately by giving most of their attention to chin pointing. Successful when playing shorter easier shots and keeping the chin pointed to the very finish of the swing.

Trojans, Bruins Top-Grid Card

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer
UCLA's battling Bruins have Gary Beban, a javelin thrower from Canada, and a string of fetching Pom Pom girls. The pollsters say they're No. 1.

Southern California's dashing Trojans have Orange Juice Simpson, a linebacker from Ireland and a famous fight song. The oddsmakers say they can't be beat.

Something has to give when the two West Coast titans bump heads today in a nationally televised (ABC, 4:30 p.m., EST) showdown—but it figures to be touch-and-go to the finish.

The top-ranked Bruins, 7-0-1, are three-point underdogs against No. 1 to No. 4 last week after Oregon State snapped their eight-game winning streak.

At stake are the Pacific 8 Conference title, the host berth in the Rose Bowl, and quite possibly, the national championship and the Heisman Trophy—top individual prize in college football.

Indiana's unbeaten Hoosiers, ranked No. 5, went after their ninth victory and the other Rose Bowl spot when they took on rugged Minnesota at Minneapolis. A victory for the Gophers, however, would give them the inside track as the Big 10's representative at Pasadena Jan. 1.

Wyoming, the only other unbeaten, untied major power at 9-0, winds up its regular season at the University of Texas-El Paso tonight. Both the sixth-ranked Cowboys and the high-scoring Miners, 5-1-1, hoped to nail bowl bids.

Second-ranked Tennessee met Mississippi at Memphis, Tenn., No. 3 Purdue entertained Michigan State; No. 7 Oklahoma hosted Kansas; No. 8 Oregon State was at Oregon; No. 9 Notre Dame at Georgia Tech and No. 10 North Carolina State at Clemson.

Alabama visited South Carolina; Army was at Pitt; Colorado at Kansas State; Idaho at Houston; Nebraska at Missouri; TCU at Texas and Yale at Princeton in other top attractions.

In Friday night's only major games, Wake Forest drubbed Maryland 35-17 and Toledo trimmed Dayton 21-7.

Royals Beat Celts 120-119

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

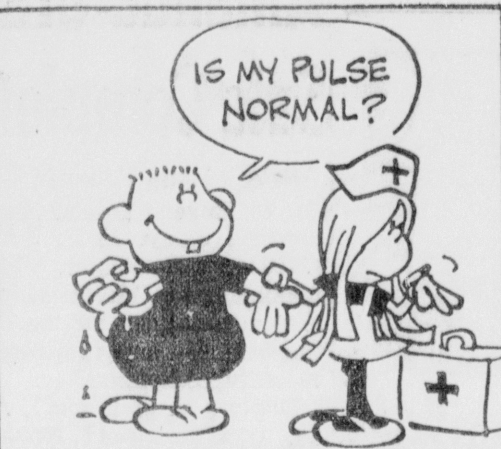

The Cincinnati Royals must be happy to have Happy Hairston in their lineup. So, too, are the Philadelphia 76ers.

Hairston's heroics in the final minutes helped Cincinnati beat the Boston Celtics 120-119 Friday night, knocking the Celtics out of first place in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association.

Philadelphia replaced the Celts in the top position by defeating the St. Louis Hawks 125-117 in the opener of a doubleheader at Baltimore. In the second game, the Bullets downed the Los Angeles Lakers, 116-107.

In other games, San Francisco edged Chicago 111-109 and Seattle topped San Diego 130-124.

Today in Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has voted 211 to 37 to take up a bill aimed against Americans who aid the Viet Cong or North Vietnamese or interfere with the movement of troop trains.

Sponsored by Rep. Joe Pool, D-Tex., the bill would provide penalties of up to $20,000 in fines and 20 years in prison for Americans convicted of helping the Viet Cong or North Vietnamese. It provides fines of up to $10,000 for persons convicted of blocking or attempting to block the movement of troop trains.

WASHINGTON (AP) — House-Senate agreement is reportedly near on a compromise bill to extend the antipoverty program for two years.

Conferences from the two Chambers are likely to agree on an authorization of about $1.9 billion the first year, reports indicated. The Senate has passed a two-year extension with a $2.2 billion authorization. The House has called for a one-year extension and a $1.6 billion authorization.

A separate appropriation bill would determine the actual money to be made available to the Office of Economic Opportunity.

House conferees have insisted on the retention of a provision placing Community Action programs under public officials. The Senate bill does not contain such a provision.

Garden State Stakes Set

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP)—Is it worth a $10,000 gamble to run for a share of one of the thoroughbred racing's richest purses—the $314,535 Garden State Stakes?

Thomas Leclair, a comparative newcomer to the sport from Miami, Fla., and C.V. Whitney, wise in the ways of thoroughbreds, believe it is. So Leclair's Subpet and Whitney's Bugged were in the field of 13 2-year-olds named for today's 15th running of the 1 1/16 miles of the Garden State Stakes at Garden State Park.

Today's running, with 13 starters, was worth $188,721, with second place getting $62,907, third $31,543.50 and fourth $15,726.75. Post time was scheduled for 4:12 p.m., EST.

Both Subpet, winner of six of his 14 starts including the Sapling and Great American Stakes, and Bugged, first in three of his 10 outings but without stakes success, were highly regarded in the pre-race calculations.

Iron Ruler, conqueror of Vitrolite, hear apparent to the 2-year-old title, in the Cowdin at Aqueduct was the 5-2 choice with Subpet next at 3-1. Behind them at 4-1 came T.V. Commercial, winner of one division of the Arlington-Washington Futurity and runner-up to Vitrolite in the more recent Pimlico at Laurel Futurity.

Want State Patrol Made State Police

CLEVELAND (AP)—A professor of law at Case Western Reserve University says the Ohio Highway Patrol should be used in riots instead of the National guard because "it is a job for a professional and the guard is not a police force."

That view was expressed Friday by Prof. Oliver Schroeder at a hearing conducted by the Judiciary Committee of the Ohio House of Representatives on the need for new antiriot laws.

He proposed that the patrol be converted from a unit with limited powers to a full-fledged police force both on and off the highways. The patrol now has jurisdiction only on the highways and state property.

A statement by Kenneth Solomon, an assistant professor at Case Western Reserve University, warning against the drafting of broad new laws aimed at instigators of riots was challenged by the committee.

Solomon said present criminal laws are sufficient and any new laws would only anger

Negroes in slum areas.

His view was defended by C. Lyonel Jones, head of the Hough neighborhood legal center, who said new laws on housing, jobs, welfare and education were more important than new antiriot laws.

A plea for new riot laws was made by Police Chief Edward Kemmerit of Geneva-on-the-Lake. Such laws are needed to control teen-agers, college youths and motorcycle gangs if not for race riots, he said.

The committee will receive testimony on proposed legislation at a hearing in Toledo in two weeks.

Sponsored by Rep. Joe Pool, D-Tex., the bill would provide penalties of up to $20,000 in fines and 20 years in prison for Americans convicted of helping the Viet Cong or North Vietnamese. It provides fines of up to $10,000 for persons convicted of blocking or attempting to block the movement of troop trains.

WASHINGTON (AP) — House-Senate agreement is reportedly near on a compromise bill to extend the antipoverty program for two years.

Conferences from the two Chambers are likely to agree on an authorization of about $1.9 billion the first year, reports indicated. The Senate has passed a two-year extension with a $2.2 billion authorization. The House has called for a one-year extension and a $1.6 billion authorization.

A separate appropriation bill would determine the actual money to be made available to the Office of Economic Opportunity.

House conferees have insisted on the retention of a provision placing Community Action programs under public officials. The Senate bill does not contain such a provision.

Garden State Stakes Set

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — Is it worth a $10,000 gamble to run for a share of one of the thoroughbred racing's richest purses—the $314,535 Garden State Stakes?

Thomas Leclair, a comparative newcomer to the sport from Miami, Fla., and C.V. Whitney, wise in the ways of thoroughbreds, believe it is. So Leclair's Subpet and Whitney's Bugged were in the field of 13 2-year-olds named for today's 15th running of the 1 1-16 miles of the Garden State Stakes at Garden State Park.

Today's running, with 13 starters, was worth $188,721, with second place getting $62,907, third $31,543.50 and fourth $15,726.75. Post time was scheduled for 4:12 p.m., EST.

Both Subpet, winner of six of his 14 starts including the Sapling and Great American Stakes, and Bugged, first in three of his 10 outings but without stakes success, were highly regarded in the pre-race calculations.

Iron Ruler, conqueror of Vitiolic, hear apparent to the 2-year-old title, in the Cowdin at Aqueduct was the 5-2 choice with Subpet next at 3-1. Behind them at 4-1 came T.V. Commercial, winner of one division of the Arlington-Washington Futurity and runner-up to Vitiolic in the more recent Pimlico at Laurel Futurity.

Want State Patrol Made State Police

CLEVELAND (AP)—A professor of law at Case Western Reserve University says the Ohio Highway Patrol should be used in riots instead of the National guard because "it is a job for a professional and the guard is not a police force."

That view was expressed Friday by Prof. Oliver Schroeder at a hearing conducted by the Judiciary Committee of the Ohio House of Representatives on the need for new anti-riot laws.

He proposed that the patrol be converted from a unit with limited powers to a full-fledged police force both on and off the highways. The patrol now has jurisdiction only on the highways and state property.

A statement by Kenneth Solomon, an assistant professor at Case Western Reserve University, warning against the drafting of broad new laws aimed at instigators of riots was challenged by the committee.

Solomon said present criminal laws are sufficient and any new laws would only anger

Negroes in slum areas. His view was defended by C. Lyonel Jones, head of the Hough neighborhood legal center, who said new laws on housing, jobs, welfare and education were more important than new anti-riot laws.

A plea for new riot laws was made by Police Chief Edward Kemerat of Geneva-on-the-Lake. Such laws are needed to control teenagers, college youths and motorcycle gangs if not for race riots, he said. The committee will receive testimony on proposed gun legislation at a hearing in Toledo in two weeks.
